CONGRESSIONAL.

Both Branches Tackle the Cuban Question.

Senator Call Denounces the Treachery of Weyler,

And Declares Maceo's Death Was Purely Murder.

Senator Pfeffer Brings Up the Financial Matter.

Both Houses Will Adjourn for the Holidays---Will Not Reassemble Until January 5.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senator Teller, of Colorado, made his appearance on the floor of the senate today for the first time since the session opened. On his desk was a large basket of flowers, tied with heavy ribbon streamers of red, white and blue. Mr. Teller was cordially greeted by his associates on both sides of the chamber.

The vice-president announced the names of Messrs. Sherman, of Ohio; Elkins, of West Virginia, and Mitchell, of Wisconsin, as a committee to arrange for the coming inauguration of the president-elect, in accordance with a resolution introduced by Mr. Sherman.

Mr. Blanchard, democrat, Louisiana, presented the credentials of his successor, Samuel Douglass McEnery, for the term beginning March 4 next.

Mr. Allen addressed the senate today on a resolution introduced by himself last week declaring the inviolability of contracts. The speech was largely a refutation of charges made by Senator Hoar in a recent address before the Home Market club in Boston. Mr. Allen said that neither Kansas, Nebraska nor any of the states which had returned populist electors, was on that account to be classed as revolutionary and regardless of the sacred nature of legal contracts and obligations. He assured the eastern stockholders in western railroads that they had nothing to fear and said western judges were equal in justice and intelligence to those of the east and would hold the balance fairly between residents and non-residents. They would prevent over-capitalization and wild and reckless management of corporations, but would be impartial in the enforcement of both the letter and the spirit of the law. In conclusion he characterized Senator Hoar's remarks as "a reflection on a poor and struggling, but honest Christian community."

In presenting a Turkey-Armenian memorial, Mr. Gallinger said he fully approved the terms of the memorial, including the statement that the great powers of Christendom should intervene, even if it resulted in the dismemberment of the Turkish empire.

Mr. Peffer introduced a comprehensive resolution for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report on the establishment of a permanent monetary system. The resolution recites that the recent election did not show definitely that the people favored any one of the four monetary policies on which the campaign proceeded, viz.: Gold monometallism, international bimetallism, silver and gold at 16 to 1, or the 16 to 1 ratio, supplemented by legal tender notes. The commission as proposed is to consist of one national democrat, one republican, one democrat and one populist, these to select a fifth person of recognized learning in finance. They are to be appointed by the president; to sit in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver and New Orleans; to receive $400 per month each; to conclude their investigations within twelve montns. The resolution proposes an appropriation of $50,000 for the commission.

Mr. Hale, republican, of Maine, offered a concurrent resolution for the holiday recess of congress from December 22 to January 5, which was referred to the appropriations committee.

The Cuban question came forward again when Mr. Call presented three separate resolutions. One denounced the killing of Gen. Antonio Maceo as follows:

"Resolved, That the killing of General Antonio Maceo, a renowned general in the service of the republic of Cuba, if true, while under a flag of truce and with assurance of safety, plainly was a violation of the rules of civilized war; an outrage, a base treachery, a murder and disgrace which demands the execration of every government and of all the people of the world, whether civilized or savages; that the government which authorizes, permits or fails to punish the assassins who are connected in any way with the guilt of this crime, with the extreme penalty of the law is an outcast and infamy of nations, and from the pale of civilization and public law; that the committee on foreign relations be directed to make inquiry as to the facts and report to the senate at an early day."

Another resolution by Mr. Call requested the president to demand the release of all United States citizens imprisoned in the Spanish penal colony on the island of Centa, off the coast of Africa.

The third resolution from Mr. Call asked the secretary of state for a list of all United States citizens imprisoned in Spanish settlements, etc., with the circumstances of arrest, conviction, etc.

The three resolutions were referred without comment to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, was then recognized for a speech on his resolution reciting that states have not the power to legislate in such manner as to violate the obligation of contracts.

THE HOUSE.

The reported assassination of Maceo, the Cuban patriot, and its effect on the attitude of this country toward the revolutionists was almost the sole topic of conversation on the floor before the house met today, and there was a general expectation that some radically sensational resolutions would be introduced. No resolutions, however, were offered in open session.

Mr. Dingley, chairman of the ways and means committee, presented a concurrent resolution for a holiday recess from Wednesday, December 23, until Tuesday, January 5. The resolution was adopted without division.

FIRE STARTS A PANIC.

People at Soho, Pa., Trample Each Other in Getting Out.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 14.—A panic occurred in St. Agnes' Roman Catholic church at Soho during the 9 o'clock service yesterday. Father McHugh, the rector, was in the pulpit at the time and was surprised when people began leaving the church. Some boys cried "fire," and a general rush was made by the congregation to get out of the building. The pastor then saw smoke issuing from the sacristy. He ran there and found that it came from a heater. He shouted to the people to remain in their pews, but by this time half the congregation was at the doors trying to get out. One woman was trampled upon, but not seriously injured. The church was partially destroyed by fire about four years ago.

KILLED BY A THIEF.

Bloodhounds Searching for the Murderer at Lamoille.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Dec. 14.—Andrew Hart, son of George W. Hart, a farmer living two miles southeast of Lamoille, was killed by a burglar, two shots entering his side. The robber then sprang through a window, cutting himself considerably and leaving his hat behind.

The boy's father was awakened by the shots and jumped through the broken window after the burglar, but it was too dark to see him, and he escaped. A posse of a hundred men with two or three bloodhounds are seeking for the murderer.

Young Hart was very popular and highly respected in the community. He was on his way down stairs to light the fires when he accosted the robber and met death.

MURDERER FRANTZ.

His Trial Commenced This Morning at Dayton.

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 14.—The trial of Albert J. Frantz for the murder ot Bessie Little, his sweetheart, whose badly decomposed body was found in the Stillwater river, a branch of the Miami, in this city, on September 2 last, was commenced today. The whole morning and most of the afternoon was taken up with the empanneling of a jury. Great interest is taken in the case, which rivals the Pearl Bryan murder in its atrocity.

Cut His Wife's and His Own Throat at Detroit.

DETROIT, Dec. 14.—Ernest Chase, son of D. E. Chase, of recipe book fame, cut his wife's and his own throat badly this morning in an insane attempt at murder and suicide. Physicians think that both have a good chance of recovery. Chase has been dissipating badly.

WITH A CRASH

Lake Shore Passenger Train Collides With Freight Cars.

Today the Lake Shore train due from the north at 11 o'clock ran onto a siding and crashed into a string of loaded freight cars, near the northside depot.

Several freight cars were derailed and the headlight and pilot were torn from the locomotive. Nobody was seriously hurt.

The accident was caused by an open switch which Engineer Donnelly did not notice in time to prevent it.

Secretary Prevey, of the Associated Charities, says there is more demand for assistance at present than at any time since he has had charge of his office. He is surprised to find so many men in the city out of employment. Most of the applicants for jobs are laborers. People who have trades are most all well provided for. A chance is in sight for the employment of many as soon as the work of tearing down the old court house commences. The county commissioners say they will hire a good many hands in connection with that job.

AT HER GRAVE!

E. E. Wright, of Toledo, Ohio, Kills Himself.

The Suicide of a Young Man Because of the Death of the Woman He Loved.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Dec. 14.—Edmund E. Wright, a young married man of this city, committed suicide yesterday morning at the grave of Mrs. Claudia Osborn, in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Wright, who was only twenty years of age, was the son of a well known insurance man of this city. Mrs. Osborn was a good looking young woman from Ypsilanti, Mich., who was employed as a stenographer at the office of the E. P. Breckenridge company. Mrs. Osborn died December 4 at St. Vincent's hospital, where she was taken by Mr. Wright, who at that time gave his name as Osborn, and professed to be her husband.

He attended church in the morning with a friend and office companion of Mrs. Osborn, named Mrs. Stabbler. After church they went to the cemetery, where Mr. Wright placed a bouquet on Mrs. Osborn's grave. As they turned away to leave the grounds he stated he was going east in the evening. After going about 100 feet he excused himself and ran back. His companion was horrified to see him fall on his knees at the grave, make the sign of the cross and instantly shoot himself through the heart with a revolver. Running to him, she found him dying, holding a crucifix in one hand and a rosary in the other.

Letters were found in his pocket addressed to various relatives, and one to his father stated that on the day Mrs. Osborn died he had determined to commit suicide. Mrs. Osborn is said to have had a husband living at Ypsilanti.

CANADA MAY GET IT

The Fight Between Corbett and Fitzsimmons.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Local sporting men are discussing a proposition made by a number of men from Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., to have Corbett and Fitzsimmons meet in Canada. The proposition is that a combination be made of well known Buffalo, Toronto and Hamilton citizens and a big purse be offered, the fight to take place in Hamilton. There is a hall in that city capable of holding at least 10,000 people and the Canadians say that they are reasonably sure of non-interference by the authorities. It is said that a Hamilton man who is pushing the scheme is now in New York with the object of consulting Dan Stuart.

ANDERSON, Ind., Dec. 14.—A petition will be forwarded to the governor asking for clemency for William Stapleton, who was sentenced to the prison north for shooting his son-in-law, Charles Derste. There will be delay occasioned in taking him to the penitentiary in hopes that the petition will have effect. Derste eloped with Stapleton's daughter and later deserted her. There was also strong evidence that he shot first.

CLEVER FORGERY

Was the Contract in the Fair Case,

By Which the Widow of the Millionaire Claims Wealth--Result of Examination.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Experts declare that the ink of Mrs. Craven's contract, by which she claims to be the contract widow of the late James G. Fair, is about a year and a half old, although it bears date May 23, 1892. In the making of the pencil deeds three different lead pencils were used, say the experts, and there are over 100 retouched letters in them. These are two of the most startling results of the examinations of these documents claimed by experts Carvalho and Ames. Seldom, if ever, in the history of litigation, either criminal or civil was such energy devoted to inspecting questionable documents as that found by the celebrated experts at the instance of the administrator of the bonanza king's estate. The pencil will was the first to be scrutinized by the experts, and in their report they say it is by all odds the best piece of forgery. The handwriting they declare is a good imitation of that of Fair, with the exception that while the millionaire was in the habit of using long terminals to letters, the writer of the deeds unconsciously stopped short after completing the word. The deeds the experts intimate were rather clumsily executed. Mrs. Craven has never contended that the body of these instruments was written by Fair, asserting that only his own name and the signature were done by Fair. But the most remarkable thing about these deeds is that if Fair did not write the body of the deeds he must have made some of the letters and words in various sentences according to the expert's theory.

HORSEMAN SLAIN.

Ed Fetters Murdered Near Knox, Ind.

His Partner in Business Charged With the Crime and Has Been Arrested.

KNOX, Ind., Dec. 14.--Never before in the history of this county has so much excitement prevailed as when it became known that a man had been found murdered near this place. William Sutherlin, who lives in Plymouth, had a partner in his business of horse trading. A while ago the partner, Edward D. B. Fitters, was in Knox with Sutherlin, since which time Fitters has not been seen. Friday some farmers discovered a newly made grave, and on opening it they found that it contained the carcass of a skinned mule, but immediately beneath the mule was found the corpse of Ed Fetters.

A coroner's inquest was ordered. The coroner issued his writ to a justice of the peace charging Sutherlin with murder, and he is now confined in jail here. It is expected that the examination will develop evidence that will implicate others in the crime. Sutherlin was seen with blood on his hands, coat and shoes. The prisoner was remanded to jail without bail, and will be given preliminary hearing December 16.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. — Twelve thousand people saw Teddy Hale, the Irish hero of the six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, cross the finish line Saturday night a winner with 1,910 miles and eight laps to his credit. J. S. Rice, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., finished second, with 1,882 miles and six laps to his credit. Twelve riders broke the world's record for 142 hours, made by Albert Schock in 1895, 1,600 miles and one lap. Twenty-eight men started and fifteen rode at the finish. The strain on all has been great and all showed the effects of loss of sleep. Hale and Rice, who finished first and second, were fresher than any of the others. Hale spurted to the end, and between 9 and 10 o'clock made a mile in 2:40 after riding more than 141 hours.

CUBAN SOLDIERS.

Spain's Brutality to Her Prisoners of War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senor Quesda, in charge of the Cuban headquarters, has documents bearing on the treatment of soldiers in Cuba which he intends to use before congress in attempting to secure from that body action favorable to the insurgents' cause, and which, he contends, accord to the Cubans the right of belligerency. They assert, he says, that the Spaniards agreed to abide by the terms of the Geneva Red Cross agreement for the treatment of soldiers captured in the war, which they fail utterly to keep, notwithstanding the Cubans treated the Spanish captives with great magnamity.

TRIED TO PASS CHECKS.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: "A man who said his name was J. H. Blount, called at the Dispatch office today in a drunken condition and exhibited a couple of checks drawn on the First National bank, of this city, and payable to the bearer. One check called for $80 or more and the other for $92.25. He tried to get them cashed, but the clerk declined to accommodate him. Going to the Postal telegraph office the stranger again exhibited his checks, and after some maudlin talk left the place. Police Captain Donly was told of the circumstances of the stranger's visits, and the officer, finding him on the street, conducted him to the jail office. Blount's pockets were searched, but the checks were not found. The man stated that he hailed from Fort Wayne. He said he was a cattle buyer for a Chicago firm and that he had come to Michigan City from Monon, on his way to Chicago, merely to get drunk. He had a letter from the Chicago firm, addressed to him at Fort Wayne, requesting him to come to Chicago at once and take a car load of cattle to Chicago. The death of Mrs. Josephine Sithens, which was caused by heart disease, as stated in THE SENTINEL last Saturday, came suddenly and without warning. She was in her usual health all morning, and although she had lately complained of trouble with her heart, it was thought to be only a slight ailment, and no fears were entertained. She was sitting at the dinner table with her husband, Stephen Sithens, when suddenly, without a word, she fell to the floor. Her husband, alarmed, called for assistance, and a messenger was dispatched for a physician, but before the doctor arrived the vital spark had fled. The deceased was forty-six years of age and leaves a husband to mourn her loss alone. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 127 West Superior street.

DOWN A CHUTE.

Franklin Rodabaugh's Thrilling Experience.

Descends With Lightning Speed Through a Shaft--Miss Lizzie Koch Has Four Ribs Fractured.

Franklin L. Rodabaugh, a traveling agent for the Bash Packing company, while on one of the upper floors of the firm's establishment, this morning, stepped into a chute and fell to the basement. He badly sprained his back and otherwise injured himself by the fall, and possibly received internal injuries of a grave character. He was conveyed to his home on Alliger street, where Dr. G. C. Stemen examined him and found that no bones were broken. Mr. Rodabaugh suffers a good deal of pain constantly.

FOUR RIBS FRACTURED.

Miss Lizzie Koch, of Huntington, Ind., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John F. Rissing, of 250 St. Joe boulevard, had the misfortune to fall from the top of a step ladder last Saturday, resulting in the fracture of four ribs on the left side. She is now in a critical condition at Mr. Rissing's residence.

5,000 CANDLE POWER

Is the Strength of the Battery of Lights

Placed in the C. W. Miner Art Studio by the F. W. Edmunds Co.

Commencing this evening, the Charles W. Miner Art Studio, at No. 23 West Wayne street, will be open every evening until Christmas for the taking of photographs by his incomparable system of electric lights. There have been different contrivances invented for the taking of pictures after night, but the system now in use in the Miner gallery far excels any ever invented heretofore.

The system originated with Mr. Miner, and the work was performed by the F. W. Edmunds Electrical Construction company, under Mr. Miner's personal supervision, and is as fine a piece of electrical work as was ever built in this city. Under the old system of taking photographs by electric light, the reflected rays of an arc light were used, but by Mr. Miner's new invention the direct light from a 5,000 candle power battery of incandescent lights are used with much more satisfactory results. The light is directed on the sitter through a pure white diffusing screen, and by a system of switches and screens can be directed wherever the artist desires. Mr. Miner's recently patented invention has been examined by all the leading members of the State and National Photographers' association, and without a single exception, pronounced by all these gentlemen to be the finest arrangement in existence for this class of work. This addition without a doubt puts Mr. Miner's gallery in the front rank in this country and he has the distinction of possessing something which is not to be found in any other studio in the wide world. Everything else in Mr. Miner's studio is of the same high class as his light system and his facilities for the rapid turning out of work are of the best. Pictures taken either day or night can be delivered to the sitter in ten or twelve hours from the time of placing the order, and any work promised for Christmas will be delivered promptly on time. Mr. Miner has a reputation for his skill in producing all the new styles of finishing so dear to the hearts of studio patrons, and he has in his possession medals awarded by the national association for the high character of his work. Take a glance at the handsome case at the corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets and be convinced for yourself of the kind of work Mr. Miner is turning out.

CONGRESS is tinkering with the tariff bill again. The people would be better off if our senators and representatives would let the tariff alone for a while. The frequent changes in the rates disturbs business.

SENATOR TURPIE, of Indiana, has prepared a number of amendments which he intends to offer to the naval appropriation bill. If they should prevail, they would materially change the law relating to the navy.

THE churches of this city are preparing for a great spiritual awakening and the signs of the times indicate that they will witness soul saving revivals this winter. In some of them meetings of this character are already in progress.

REPRESENTATIVE BOATNER, of Louisiana, has introduced a bill increasing the salary of the speaker of the house from $8,000 to $10,000, and of the senators and representatives from $5,000 to $7,500. The people will not favor an increase in the salaries of our national legislators.

THE SENTINEL is in receipt of a little volume, which, under the title of "Polly Pods," gives a number of the poems of Senator S. B. McManus, of Lima, Ind., who is well known in this city. Mr. McManus is an entertaining writer and his verses are always excellent in their literary character.

HON. WALLACE BRUCE, who is to lecture at the Masonic Temple in a few weeks, is one of the most entertaining and instructive platform speakers in the country. He has spoken twice in this city to large and appreciative audiences and those who heard him before will be glad to welcome the return of the eloquent and witty poet.

THE merchants who are catching the trade just now—or at any time during the year, for that matter—are those who are advertising and letting the people know of the goods they have for sale. To test the truth of this assertion, just compare the activity around the store of the man who does advertise and the one who doesn't. The newspaper is the best medium, too.

STATE AUDITOR DAILY has, by direction of the state finance board, issued a warrant for another payment of $200,000 on the permanent debt of the state. With this payment the permanent debt has been reduced $800,000 this year. State officers point out that it is the best record the state has ever made in one year in a financial way, and they are proud of the work accomplished. It is announced that on April 1 next the state will pay off the $340,000 of three and one-half temporary loan bonds, which become payable on that date.

The Shame of Spain.

It is not creditable to the people of Spain that the reported death of Maceo has led to the most excessive and at times riotous demonstration in different parts of that country. The barbarous enthusiasm of the Spanish people over the reported death of the great Cuban soldier, wrought them to such a frenzy that the United States legation in Madrid required the special protection of the police and military. Considering that Maceo's only crime has been to offer his life for the disenthralment of his people, and that he has surpassed all in individual heroism in the conflict, any other than a barbarous nation would pay decent respect to so brave a soldier when he fell at the front of his command, but Spain seems to be wild with fiendish delight because one great negro general has finally fallen before the Spanish army.

In beautiful contrast with the people of Spain was the conduct of the American press and people in 1863 when Stonewall Jackson, the Maceo of Lee's army, was killed at Chancellorsville. While the loyal people of the north rejoiced that the cause of the insurgents had been weakened by the loss of one of its most dangerous chieftains, there was generous tribute paid from loyal lips to the heroism and grandeur of the Christian soldier who had given his life to maintain his convictions; and today the American people rank Lee and Jackson with Grant and Sheridan as heroes who were equally sincere in their faith and exhibited equal fidelity to what they believed to be patriotic duty.

Maceo emerged from the ten years' war for the freedom of Cuba bearing the scars of twenty-three wounds, and in the present rebellion, although leading one of the chief armies of the insurgents, he has been equally fearless and has been many times in the forefront of the charge.

Spain in her wild and fiendish demonstrations over the reported death of Maceo furnishes to the world additional evidence of her unfitness to govern Cuba, and it will do much to weaken the little sympathy remaining in this country for the Spanish government.

CHARLEY BOOKWALTER.

Republican Candidate for Mayor at Indianapolis.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

For some time past it has been conceded that Charles A. Bookwalter would have the inside track for the republican nomination for mayor and there are those of his friends who have said that it would simply be a walk-away with him in the convention whenever it may be held. Yesterday, however, it became known that W. N. Harding, of the law firm of Harding & Hovey and a cousin of County Commissioner Henry Harding, had already entered actively upon the work of setting up his pins for the nomination as against Bookwalter.

A movement is on foot to consolidate all of the independent military companies of the city into one body. If effected, the organization would consist of the Grays, Hibernian Rifles and companies to be made up from the younger members of the Order of Lincoln and the Walther league. It is expected that a regiment of 500 men could thus be formed. Of the military organizations here only three are in the service of the state—the Rifles, True Blues and Zollinger Battery. The others are independent companies, not affiliated with the Indiana national guard.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A Week's Doings in the Young Women's Christian Association.

First Contest in Basket Ball Will be Held Tonight--Embroidery Class Tuesday Afternoon--Notes.

The state letter was received by the association this week. This letter is sent out from the headquarters of the state committee of the Y. W. C. A. each month. It contains the chief items of interest from the associations all over the state. This month's letter also contained an outline Bible study by Miss Carrie B. Sharp, of Westminster seminary.

The union meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. held at the Third Presbyterian church was one of great interest. The association's object, methods, principles, and its relation to the church were presented to the audience by the general secretaries of the organizations, and the audience received definite knowledge of the work which is being done in the city.

The afternoon embroidery class meets on Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock instead of Monday,

The first contest game of basket ball will be played tonight. The teams represented by Misses Yarnelle, Griffiths, Greeg and Davis will play. The two teams scoring the greatest number of points will then oppose one another for forty minutes actual play. The young women who play basket ball are looking forward with anticipation to the tournament games, which will be played some time in the early spring. Before that time there will be many contest games for practice, between the teams represented by the Misses Lund, Kern, Woodworth, Bradley, Page, McKay, Bannister, Biddle and Maxwell.

The interest taken in Bible study is manifested by the fact that the classes are increasing in numbers. Miss Sharp's class, which meets at 8 o'clock on Monday night, is studying in the book of Exodus.

At the last meeting of the Thursday night class an especial study was made of the "Personality, Office and Work of the Holy Spirit" in connection with the first twelve verses of the second chapter of Acts.

Next Thursday the remainder of the chapter will be studied. Any young women may join or attend this class.

A number of the association members who attend the basket ball games from 7 to 8 Saturday evening have joined the Saturday night Bible class to study the Gospel according to Matthew. It is hoped that anyone who wishes to study one of these three books systematically will feel at liberty to attend any of the classes whenever it is possible.

The state board of charities recommends that the contracts by which federal prisoners are received into the prisons be discontinued. There are now 150 federal prisoners in the Indiana prisons. These prisoners, it is pointed out, are a continual source of annoyance to the management, because they cannot be subjected to the same punishment that may be inflicted upon state prisoners. It is also recommended that the legislature regulate the visits of people to the penitentiaries whose only interest is one of morbid curiosity.

PARTY POLICY.

The Democracy Will Adhere to the Silver Issue.

Views of Senator R. C. Bell and Governor Matthews on the Future of the Party.

In the Chicago Times-Herald a number of replies from prominent democrats are published this morning in answer to the following questions which that paper sent out for the purpose of securing their views as to what will be done in the way of reorganizing the democratic party, and what is likely to be accomplished in the way of reorganization before the next congressional election: (1). The probable basis of reorganization.

(2). Is the silver issue likely to be abandoned?

(3). Will the gold and silver wings come together?

Hon. R. C. Bell, of this city, was one of the democrats written to by the Times-Herald and his reply was as follows:

"FORT WAYNE, Ind., Dec. 13.—Answering your several inquiries: First, I see no necessity for a reorganization of the democratic party. In my judgment it is now cleaner, better organized and more powerful than ever before. It has got rid of a lot of people identified with the trusts and capitalistic interests of the country, especially those of New York and the east, and New England, and is well rid of them. No happier result could well be attained. For more than a quarter of a century these people have selfishly dictated the policy of the party and its nominations. They will never be able to do so again.

"The silver issue, in my opinion, will not be abandoned. The more the question is agitated the stronger it will become until the free and unlimited coinage of silver must and will obtain.

"The gold and silver wings of the democratic party will not come together. The gold wing is in such an insignificant minority that it is scarcely worth considering. The feeling against those who called themselves the gold wing is so intense and so bitter that it cannot be mollified even by years of time. There is a widespread conviction that these people were in such a minority that they should have yielded their judgment to the great majority of the party, and that the fight will have to go on to a finish. The result shows that these people were not honest and did not vote for their own candidate, and other democrats would rather vote for republicans than for them for any office. There is a like conviction that the republican party itself will have to come to bimetallism if it is to live. Many thousands of republicans who really believe in the free coinage of silver were only held in line in the last campaign by a vigorous application of the party lash. This cannot be done again.

"R. C. BELL."

The reply of Governor Matthews was as follows;

"There is but one democratic party, and that was the one which stood on the Chicago platform and supported Bryan for president. There will be but one democratic party in 1900, and it will be composed of the same kind of men as those who have been loyal to democracy and democratic principles this year. Mr. Cleveland and bolting democrats may organize a new party, and march under the single gold standard, but they cannot reorganize the democratic party on the Indianapolis platform, or any other. The democratic party will be true to its traditions and principles, not as Mr. Cleveland would interpret these, but as it has ever been, the party of bimetallism and the party of the people.

"The silver issue will not, by any means be abandoned. It will be the main and leading issue, both two years and four years from now.

"The democratic party will keep open its doors and receive back its bolting members when they have seen the error of their way. Nearly all will return, save the self constituted leaders of the bolting movement, who for selfish purposes misled and deceived others."

For Health or Wealth.

A winter spent in Arizona may save your life. It's not the desert you imagine. It has a climate unsurpassed for healthfulness, with soils that are richer than those in the valley of the Nile. Peopled by a class of law-abiding, progressive citizens, offers inducements in the culture of fruit that equal, if not outweigh, in value the productions of her older sister states. Phoenix, in the Salt river valley, has 12,000 people, with all the conveniences of modern civilization, massive business blocks, handsome suburban homes, seven schools, nine churches, electric street railway cars, electric lights, city water and modern sewerage system, and penetrated by one of the largest railway systems in the United States, the Southern Pacific. Its productions are unexcelled by any other portion in the cultivation of staple grains and many of the tropical fruits. The price of land is low, including a perpetual water right. There are but few of the eastern farmers who are aware of the fact that in this very valley there are 150,000 acres of land now under cultivation, and the richest soil on the face of the earth. For routes, rates, maps or other information apply to any representative of the Southern Pacific, who will take pleasure in answering your inquiries and giving you specially prepared literature.

BABOO ENGLISH.

Some Unique Examples of How It Is Expressed In India.

Captain F. M. Randall copied the certificates of a dumb man encountered upon his interesting mission to Nepaul—for the purpose of raising a second battalion to the renowned Third ghookas. Didar Singh, schoolmaster of the Twenty-first N. I., wrote: "This poor Brahmin seems to be deprived of speaking organ. It appears from his several certificates that his family also is deprived of some organ or other. All people who wish to show pity on poors will help this poor Brahmin. Signed," etc. A second was fascinating as a cryptograph, "This Brahmin I hope the other gentleman support to them and cannot speak and have talk." A third pointed out that "this fellow is certainly too meserable on account of his being both deaf and dumb. He wants help from the public for God's sake. Paid 4 annas." A fourth urged: "Please any small donation may be given to the bearer of this book. He is actually dumb and more so. Very poor." Another kind soul took the opportunity to repeat the "beatitudes" in this fashion, "Blessed are they that their persecution for ritousness sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Finally there was a testimonial bearing the mystic signature "Loftus:" "Hoping that everybody shall help the man as far as they can. The bearer of this, I presume a Brahmin, is apparently dumb as I have by subjecting him to a test on this point though it might be questioned whether he only sustains life on milk if so milk must be truly nourishing diet as his phisical condition testifies this of course does not alter the fact that he is really deserving of support which I hope the Chandari populace will afford him."

Lady Dufferin has recorded some examples in her own experience. Telegrams from a station master during an outbreak of cholera: "All railway Baboos assembled. To stay here is in death. What can Baboo give in exchange for his soul? In anticipation of sanction we all leave tonight." During the viceregal stay at Mysore a servant of the maharajah used to offer her ladyship a bouquet every morning with the words, "A delicate attention." Finally he presented a petition signed: "G. P. Don Juan. Talented Lepidoptera." "Here's another brilliant conception," said he in delivering it. A protege wrote to Lady Dufferin, "You have been very kind to me, and may God Almighty give you tit for tat." It is not for want of matter that I stop. Yet, to balance the account, here is one from the other side, which I cannot guarantee, however. It is told in India that when Sir Salar Jung offered his nuzzar (present) to her majesty, the English press made him offer a mugger (crocodile). — Frederick Boyle in Westminster Gazette.

Joan of Arc on the Battlefield.

In battle her courage was fearless, and well it was that it was so, for each success was dearly bought, her indomitable energy alone inspiring her faint hearted followers. When her troops threatened retreat, it was by throwing herself into the thickest of the fight, crying, "They are ours!" that she turned defeat to victory. Often wounded, she disdained the pain of her mangled flesh and remained on the field as an example to her men. A gracious woman withal, her pity was even greater than her courage, braving and receiving blows, but never returning them. She had but one weapon, her banner, for her sword never left its scabbard. Later she was to say that she "loved her banner a thousand times more than her sword." At night, when the heat of battle was assuaged, her tears fell at the thought of the wounded and the dead. "I have never seen French blood shed without my hair standing on end," was one of her naive utterances. The enemy commanded her pity as well, and she was as often seen assisting the dying English as her own people. Thus she was not only the mind which directs, she was likewise the heart filled with sympathy, the soul solicitous of the welfare of other souls, intuitively understanding that the soldier who fights the best is he whose heart is pure. In the same spirit she lightened the burden of the army by curtailing useless luggage, and she drove away the disreputable women who had followed the camp and with them the debauchery and disorder which they had brought. On the other hand, she gently admonished her soldiers to clear their conscience, to be virtuous and religious as well as brave.—"The National Hero of France," by Maurice Boutet de Monvel, in Century.

Infelicitous Candor.

They Were Kin.

"The best joke I ever heard was on me," said J. D. Buford to a reporter.

"I was in Wise county, Va., in the heart of the mountains, in the southwestern part of the Old Dominion. I am a Virginian, and in common with all loyal Virginians claim kinship with every one of my name in the state. The landlord saw my name on the register.

"'So yo' name's Buford?' he said.

"'Yes.'

"'Uster be sum Bufords hyar.'

"'Well, they must have been relatives. My family are all Virginians.'

"'Yaas. Yo' do favor 'em. Reckon yo' all air kin. Yo' look jess like Dave.'

"'My father's name was Dave.'

"'Thar war three—Bob, John and Dave.'

"'I have uncles by those names. They are family names.'

"'Yo' sho' air kin. I thought so, minit I looked at yo'.'

"'You say the Bufords moved away?'

"'Not zackly.'

"'I thought you said they used to live here?'

"'That's what I sed. Yo' see, John an Dave was Bob's sons. The ole man was gwine ter marry agin, so the boys wouldn't git the little propity the ole man had, an they killed 'im; so we hung John an Dave.'

"I did not trace the relationship or the family resemblance any farther."—Washington Star.

THE HORSE.

How an Equine Friend Was Regarded and Treated In Ancient Times.

It is perhaps small matter for wonder that the nations who first tamed the horse for riding attached high honor to the creature, seated on whose back they scoured with such swiftness. The exhilaration of riding is one which custom does not stale and which affects the civilized rider of today, if he be of an emotional nature, probably almost as keenly as it did the ancient Scythian, German or Slav. In addition to this, neighboring races who had not this art looked upon those who had it with a kind of superstitious wonder, weaving strange stories about them. The horsemen of Thessaly appeared to the other Greeks through a mist of fables as centaurs, half man, half brute, but wholly divine. And in the frank fashion of all primitive people the horseman gave back to the horse the glory that he received reflected from it and made of his comrade in war and chase a kind of deity.

The ancient Germans took oracles from white horses, just as the Egyptians did from their sacred oxen. The animals were kept in groves and gave augury by neighing. Among the Slavs the sword combined with the horse to foretell future events. The weapons were planted in the ground, and the horses led among them. By the movements of the beasts the attending priests judged the will of the gods. Among the Norsemen the sacrifice of a horse and the eating of its flesh was a token of sacramental allegiance to Odin.

Among the ancient Irish, when a king was crowned in Ulster, it was customary to slay a white mare and boil it in a vat. Into this vat the newly made king descended and there sat, drinking the broth and tasting small portions of the meat. The eating of horseflesh was so well recognized as a heathen rite that the early Christian saints forbade it to their converts. Among the Scythians the horse was deemed sacred to the sun, and its worship crossed the Himalayas and was early established among the Rajput kings.

Next to a human being, who probably was, as a matter of fact, never sacrificed in ancient India, the horse was the most acceptable offering to the gods. It is laid down in the Puranas that the sacrificer of 100 horses ousts Indra, the king of the gods, from his throne and reigns in paradise (swarga) in his stead. There is no record, however, of any one having earned this surpassing felicity. Kings, on attaining the throne, usually sacrificed a horse, their tributary princes performing the more menial duties connected with the aswamedha (horse sacrifice). Indeed, even the office of porter in this solemn rite could only be assumed by one of royal blood. One of the books of the great Hindoo epic, the Mahabbharata, contains an account of the ashwamedha held by Yudhisthira, king of the Pandus, when he had, by the defeat of the Karavas, firmly established his rule over northern India. The sacred horse was turned loose to wander wherever it listed for a year, while the loyal army followed it everywere at a respectful distance. Other tribes whose pastures it crossed were given the option of either turning out in force to join the triumph of the horse or of accepting wager of battle. At the end of the year the horse was led back to the palace and there sacrificed.—London Standard.

Alumina.

Announcement is made of a process invented by Heibling, says the London Chemist, for producing alumina from clay in a form absolutely free from silica and readily convertible into sulphate and other aluminic salts. The clay is incorporated with a mixture of equal parts of ammonium and potassium sulphates in the proportion of three molecules of ammonium sulphate to each molecule of alumina, this mixture being pressed into the form of hollow bricks and heated in a furnace to 270 to 280 degrees C. Gaseous ammonia and acid ammonium sulphate are given off at this temperature, while acid potassium sulphate is formed and combines with the alumina of the clay to form alum. The alum is leached from the bricks with water and freed from iron by recrystallization, and the insoluble silica which remains behind may be employed in the manufacture of cements. By spreading out the powdered alum in thin layers on shelves arranged in a vertical tower on passing over it the warm, moist ammoniacal vapors from the brick oven, the alum is transferred into alumina, which retains the form of the original powder.

Association With the Highest.

In all societies it is advisable to associate, if possible, with the highest, not that the highest are always the best, but because, if disgusted there, we can at any time descend; but, if we begin with the lowest, to ascend is impossible. In the grand theater of human life a box ticket takes us through the house.—Colton.

His Donation.

"Mr. Close," said a member of the finance committee of the proposed new Baptist church of Smithville, "we have not asked you for a contribution for the church, but some one suggested that you might like to give us a $10 goldpiece to put in the cornerstone."

"Are you sure it would go into the cornerstone and be bricked up?"

"Quite sure."

"Then I'll give you my check for the amount, which you can put in instead of the cash."—Truth.

COVERED WITH HUMOR

When I was thirteen years old I began to have sore eyes and ears, and from my ears a humor spread. I doctored with five different skilful doctors, but they did me no good. My disease was Eczema. By this time it had gone all over my head, face, and body. Nobody thought I would live, and would not have but for CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used four boxes of CUTICURA, five cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT. My hair all came out at that time, but now it is so thick I can hardly comb it. I am sixteen years old, weigh 130 pounds, and am perfectly well.

Syrup of Figs

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

FORTY YEARS

OF SUFFERING FROM PILES.

Remarkable Cure of Popular Major Dean of Columbus, Ohio.

People who suffer from that annoying and obstinate disease will be gratified to learn that science has discovered a safe, convenient and simple cure for every form of piles, as the experience of the popular Major Dean of Columbus, Ohio, amply attests. The Major says: I would like to add my name to the thousands who have been cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure. I know from experience that it is the only remedy on earth that will effectually cure piles; plenty of remedies give relief for a time, but as for a lasting cure I had tried all the salves, lotions, etc., without success. Six boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure entirely removed all traces of a case of piles of forty years standing.

You may rest assured that the Pyramid Pile Cure has no stauncher advocate than myself.

I feel that it is my duty to allow you to use my name in any way you may see fit, in order that other sufferers may thus be directed to what I feel certain will be a speedy relief and cure.

The Pyramid Pile Cure gives instant relief and a permanent cure in all kinds of blind, bleeding, itching piles.

It is absolutely free from opiates, cocaine and similar poisons, so common in pile cures.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.

A book on cause and cure of Piles will be sent free by addressing the Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

A DANDY RUN.

The Wabash's Flyer Breaks the Long-Distance Record.

Conductor Jackson Painfully Injured—Another Railway Project—Several Accidents.

No. 1, the Wabash flyer, which is the fastest train crossing the state of Indiana, made a remarkable run last night, when it traveled 252 miles in 313 minutes, including eleven full stops, one to exchange engines, and a half-dozen or more slow-ups. The Lake Shore train, from which the flyer gets its eastern mail matter at Toledo, was late in reaching that city, and the Wabash train did not get out of Toledo until 5:17 o'clock, fifty-two minutes late. But it went into Tilton at 10:30, the exact moment at which it is due at that point. The average running time of the train, including stops, was forty-eight and six-tenth miles per hour. If we deduct the time consumed in stops, which was fully thirty minutes, it will be seen that the speed attained by the train was over a mile a minute a great portion of the distance. This time has been beaten, but not by a regular train, and in this particular the run is the more phenomenal.

CONDUCTOR INJURED.

J. P. Jackson met with a painful accident at Lima last Saturday. While standing in his caboose the train broke in two and the air brakes tightened up so suddenly that he was thrown down, striking on the edge of a seat and breaking three ribs. Mr. Jackson was for a number of years employed on the Pittsburg road and resided in this city until two or three years ago, when he took a position on the Lake Erie and Western road. He is now engaged as a conductor on the latter line. His many friends here will be pained to learn of his misfortune.

The Brewers' union held a meeting yesterday and elected the following officers:

President—John Lehman.
Vice President—Michael Funk.
Secretary—Fred Sauerteig.
Financial Secretary—Ernest Burkhard.
Treasurer—Herman Middendoerf.
Trustees—A. Eichel, Jacob Shadel and Michael Funk.

The union is in a prosperous condition, both as to finances and membership.

CHEAP RATES TO SETTLERS.

It is announced that the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways have made a $25 rate for settlers and members of their families from St. Paul to the Pacific coast points. This is equivalent to a reduction of one half of the present first class rate. Officials of the west immigration association have been working a year to secure such a rate but at first encountered difficulties in the way of railroad agents and particularly that of the Western Passenger association. Officers of the two roads named have since been able to so adjust matters as to make such a rate possible.

THE FIREMAN'S RESPONSIBILITY.

A veteran engineer on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road was interviewed by a reporter of a Pittsburg paper. He admitted that he had to depend a great deal on his fireman to get over the road with a fast train on time, and that the efficiency of the fireman did not consist in being able to shovel coal alone, as so many misinformed people supposed. He said that when running at a high rate of speed there were many things the fireman had to watch. Numerous signals are on the wrong side of the road for the engineer to see them, and unless he can depend on the fireman to watch for them on his side they cannot be approached at full speed. A negligent or inexperienced fireman would manage to be shoveling coal in the furnace just when he ought to be looking ahead, but the careful fireman who wants to help the engineer along will so time his periods for firing up that he will be invariably on the lookout, and the cheerful word, "white block," called out from the left side of the cab, is like the seamen's cry of "all is well," and gives the man at the throttle confidence. Then again, it takes a man of experience to properly fire a fast engine. The coal must be put in at the right time and in the proper place and in the correct quantity, and with due regard for quality as well. The careful knight of the scoop knows just the kind of coal he needs when a fast run is to be made, and he takes a delight in watching the steam gauge register 150 or 175 pounds while the machine is worked to its full capacity. An honest engineer values his honest fireman, and never feels at home when he is not on the engine, and the fireman generally reciprocates and tries to maintain the esteem of the engineer. Many a good engineer has failed to make a record simply because he did not have the confidence and respect of his fireman, or tried to abuse the worthy man, whose care and experience enables fast trains to make schedule time.

EVIDENTLY A MISTAKE.

Sunday morning the Chicago Times-Herald published the following startling item:

"Bracy & McNair, of this city, have been awarded the contract of constructing twenty-eight miles of track between Fort Wayne and Lake Wawasee, Ind. The contract price is $275,000."

The Sentinel reporter canvassed the city pretty thoroughly this morning in search of some one who could enlighten him upon this new railway project, but was unable to find any who had even heard of such a proposed line. The Wabash is considering the construction of a line from Ashley to Chili, connecting its main line with the Chicago-Detroit branch, and this may be the line meant by the writer of the above item. The distance between those two points is about twenty-eight miles. Wawasee is better known here as Turkey lake. It is forty miles from Fort Wayne.

BRIEF MENTIONS.

The Hartford City window glass factories resumed operations today after a long idleness.

E. C. Campbell has resumed charge of the elevator at the electric works, after a week's illness.

L. G. Schmidt, an employe of the east shops, is unable to work on account of injuries received a few days ago.

B. F. Strock, of the bridge and building department of the Wabash, spent Sunday in the city with his family.

William Brossard, one of the veteran blacksmiths in the Pittsburg shops, is suffering with rheumatism and is unable to work.

Boilermaker F. W. Schafer has returned to his work in the Pittsburg shops after a week's absence on account of an injured hand.

Machinst Julius Koch has returned from Lima, Ohio, where he attended the funeral of his nephew, Fred Koch, last Saturday.

Master Mechanic G. W. Mudd, of Springfield, Ill., was in the city a few hours this morning and called upon some of his old friends.

Fred Brink, of the Pittsburg planing mills, is detained at home by the illness of one of his children, who is in a precarious condition.

The Bass blacksmith shop, which had been shut down for a few days on account of repairs, resumed operations this morning with a full force.

Harry Young, of the electric works, who had his shoulder dislocated by a fall a short time ago, has recovered and resumed his place in the shop.

Joseph Wooff took his place in the Pittsburg shops this morning after a two weeks' seige with his old enemy, the rheumatism. He is a tool dresser.

James Trythall and M. H. Morrison, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, are off duty pending repairs to their furnace, which are now under way.

Ira Smith, or the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, has moved into the house at the corner of Wallace and Monroe streets, recently vacated by Joseph Druhot.

R. Martin, a laborer employed at the east shops, had a finger mashed Saturday, while assisting in unloading a car of lumber. He will be off duty several days.

Dr. E. F. Wagner has gone to Cleveland on business connected with his office, that of medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association.

A. Hobrock, a tinner, has recovered from an illness which kept him from his work three or four days and this morning reported at the Pittsburg shops for duty.

Central passenger committee lines have been asked to vote on a proposition for reduced rates for the national monetary convention to be held in indianapolis Janury 12.

John Sanders and Peter Weisner, of the Pittsburg paint shop, have gone to the hunting grounds in western Indiana, to spend a week in shooting whatever game comes their way.

James Roche, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, has returned to work after a three weeks' absence on account of a broken rib. Henry Dryer, of the same shop, has also resumed work after a short sickness.

Horace Walton, the well known passenger brakeman on the Pittsburg road, has recovered from an illness which kept him from his duties over three weeks. He will go out on his regular run tonight.

The Wabash will in a few days commence moving a lot of mules from St. Louis to New York for shipment to Africa. The company's agent last Saturday closed a contract to carry 1,000 of these animals to New York and the number may be increased very materially before the expiration of the contract time.

The Wabash has put in a sidetrack from its detroit line to the Indiana Pipe Line company's pumping station at Roann.

Oliver Foncannon, the paper hanger, was called to Bluffton Saturday to consult with a committee of Masons, relative to the proposed decoration of the Masonic hall in that city.

Charles Pape, the head of the Neff Water Works company, has returned from Milford, Ind., where he attended the funeral yesterday of Mr. Neff, the inventor and one of the owners of the patent.

No. 1, the fast line on the Wabash, made a phenomenal run a few days ago, when it traveled from Decatur to East St., Louis, a distance of 110 miles, in 122 minutes. This included three stops.

Considerable live stock is traveling eastward now for exportation. A few days ago a train of twenty-five cars, carrying 400 head of cattle bound for Liverpool, passed through this city over the Pittsburg road.

Henry Woenker, who resigned a position in the Pittsburg shops a few weeks ago to accept one in the Erie shops at Huntington, did not like his situation in that city and has returned to Fort Wayne. He will probably return to the Pittsburg shops.

Frank Girard is not making satisfactory progress toward health. This morning his condition was reported to be worse than it has been at any time since he was taken ill. He suffers with kidney trouble. Mr. Girard works in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop.

William F. Kelly leaves tonight for his home, in Austin, Texas, where he will spend the holidays with his parents. Mr. Kelly has been taking a course in electricity for the past year at the electric works and will return after the holidays and finish his studies.

Fort Wayne railroad men are in receipt of an invitation to a grand union ball to be given by the Huntington branches of the various railway organizations on the evening of December 31, the receipts to go to the Home for Disabled and Aged Railway Employes, at Chicago.

W. E. Lytton, ticket agent for the Lake Erie and Western at Montpelier, sent a bullet into his heart Saturday last, killing himself instantly. The deed was committed at Bradford, Ohio, where the man had gone evidently for that purpose. Lytton had been in the service of the company only a few months.

Switchman Lehneke, who had a hand crushed a few days ago in the east yards, is getting along as well as could be expected from one who was so badly injured. He is walking about his room and is quite cheerful. There are three brothers in the Lehneke family, and all are switchmen, and this is the first time an accident has happened to either.

Passenger trainmen on the Big Four are disturbed over the apparent disposition on the part of the officials to reorganize the service. A few days ago three of the oldest men in the service were dismissed and their places filled by others. The deposed men were conductors who were supposed to stand well with the officials. It is feared that more removals will follow.

The proposition to issue a 5,000 mile ticket, good over all the roads in the Central Traffic territory, meets with opposition from an unexpected quarter. Those opposed to the plan argue that in thus placing the business of a number of railroads in the hands of an individual or an association having no interest in the business of any one, the officials are violating the conditions and provisions of the anti-trust law and become amenable to the United States statute bearing upon that question.

W. M. Six, of Lebanon, Ind., has patented what he calls a "time indicator" for announcing the hour at which trains will reach a station. The indicator is operated by the telegraph operator without leaving his seat at the instrument and it tells its story in a succinct and clear manner. A state law which provides for the blackboard system now in vogue may interfere with the adoption of Mr. Six's plan, but if his method is better than the old, the law may be changed so as to admit of its adoption.

A novel suit is now pending in Delaware county, wherein a lady asks $700 damages from a railway company for obstructing the view from her house. South of a village on a high knoll the fair plaintiff has her home, and from her front window she could see the main street of the town and could even recognize her acquaintences. But that was some months ago. Now when she directs her vision through her sitting room window an unsightly railway overhead bridge looms up, cutting off the view of the street. She says she has become very lonesome since she can no longer look out of her window and see her friends and that the sum of $700 will about square matters between herself and the defendant railroad company.

The announcement made in a European paper that the section of the trans-Siberian railway extending from Cheliabinsk, on the eastern slope of the Ural mountains, to the Obi river, nearly 900 miles, was opened to traffic on October 27, recalls the fact that this great work is steadily, if slowly, proceeding toward completion. It is now possible to go from St. Petersburg or Moscow to Kolivan, a distance of 1,800 miles, without change of cars, in less than five days. The announcement further means that the greatest military and commercial railway uudertaking of modern times is now in a fair way to be realized. Writers have instanced in comparison the building of the Pacific railroad lines in this country and in Canada. But the Siberian line is unique in some respects. When completed it will be the longest stretch of railroad track ever laid. The Canadian Pacific, from Montreal to Vancouver, is 2,900 miles long, whereas the Siberian railroad, as projected, will be fully 4,700 miles of continuous track. Traversing, as it will throughout its entire length, Russian territory bordering upon the possessions of two other empires, it promises to have military possibilities of surpassing interest. The climatic and engineering conditions under which much of the work must be done rank it as a most remarkable undertaking, aside from its immense cost and the large number of people employed in the work. The Engineering News states that the estimated cost per mile of work on the railway varies from $41,725 on the Cheliabinsk section, that already completed, to $89,397 per mile on the section from Irkutsk east, which includes work on the Baikal Basin and in the mountains east of that.

The midwinter school of agriculture, in connection with Purdue university, will begin January 4, closing March 19. The course of instruction will embrace live stock husbandry and veterinary hygiene, farm dairying, soils, crops, manures and farm buildings, horticulture, economic botany and entomology, agricultural chemistry, farm sanitation, vegetable parasites and rural law, shop work in wood, practical lectures by stockmen, farmers and horticulturists, all of which will be open to male and female pupils. There will also be a special course for women, including floriculture, household chemistry, house sanitation and domestic economy.

A Feminine General.

She was visiting in the city, and she was the prettiest girl in the room. When she stood up to sing, the other girls regarded her enviously. A pretty girl who can sing is doubly dangerous, and they considered that the visitor had already received more than her proper share of masculine attention.

While she was arranging her music and whispering to the accompanist the two girls just behind the piano were exchanging confidences.

"I do think it's a shame," said the first girl vexedly. "She's captured all the men already with her airs and graces, and if she sings well—and I just know she does—we won't have a bit of fun tonight."

"Oh, yes, we will," answered the second girl, smiling happily. "We'll be all right."

But the other was not to be so easily consoled.

"I wonder who asked her to sing?" she fretted. "It must have been some one who knows all about her little tricks, too, for all the girls in the club are talking about it."

"I asked her," said the second girl calmly. "You'll know why in a minute. Just wait a bit."

Two minutes later the first girl leaned over the other and touched her arm.

"Why, she makes awful faces," she whispered delightedly. "She's positively ugly when she opens her mouth that way."

"I know it," responded the second girl, with a satisfied smile. "That's why I asked her to sing."

"You clever darling!" exclaimed the first girl, and only the fact that there were others present kept them from hugging each other as they urged the visitor to sing again.—Chicago Tribune.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Both Branches Tackle the Cuban Question.

Senator Call Denounces the Treachery of Weyler,

And Declares Maceo's Death Was Purely Murder.

Senator Pfeffer Brings Up the Financial Matter.

Both Houses Will Adjourn for the Holidays—Will Not Reassemble Until January 5.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senator Teller, of Colorado, made his appearance on the floor of the senate today for the first time since the session opened. On his desk was a large basket of flowers, tied with heavy ribbon streamers of red, white and blue. Mr. Teller was cordially greeted by his associates on both sides of the chamber.

The vice-president announced the names of Messrs. Sherman, of Ohio; Elkins, of West Virginia, and Mitchell, of Wisconsin, as a committee to arrange for the coming inauguration of the president-elect, in accordance with a resolution introduced by Mr. Sherman.

Mr. Blanchard, democrat, Louisiana, presented the credentials of his successor, Samuel Douglass McEnery, for the term beginning March 4 next.

Mr. Allen addressed the senate today on a resolution introduced by himself last week declaring the inviolability of contracts. The speech was largely a refutation of charges made by Senator Hoar in a recent address before the Home Market club in Boston. Mr. Allen said that neither Kansas, Nebraska nor any of the states which had returned populist electors, was on that account to be classed as revolutionary and regardless of the sacred nature of legal contracts and obligations. He assured the eastern stockholders in western railroads that they had nothing to fear and said western judges were equal in justice and intelligence to those of the east and would hold the balance fairly between residents and non-residents. They would prevent over-capitalization and wild and reckless management of corporations, but would be impartial in the enforcement of both the letter and the spirit of the law. In conclusion he characterized Senator Hoar's remarks as "a reflection on a poor and struggling, but honest Christian community."

In presenting a Turkey-Armenian memorial, Mr. Gallinger said he fully approved the terms of the memorial, including the statement that the great powers of Christendom should intervene, even if it resulted in the dismemberment of the Turkish empire.

Mr. Peffer introduced a comprehensive resolution for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report on the establishment of a permanent monetary system. The resolution recites that the recent election did not show definitely that the people favored any one of the four monetary policies on which the campaign proceeded, viz.: Gold monometallism, international bimetallism, silver and gold at 16 to 1, or the 16 to 1 ratio, supplemented by legal tender notes. The commission as proposed is to consist of one national democrat, one republican, one democrat and one populist, these to select a fifth person of recognized learning in finance. They are to be appointed by the president; to sit in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver and New Orleans; to receive $400 per month each; to conclude their investigations within twelve months. The resolution proposes an appropriation of $50,000 for the commission.

Mr. Hale, republican, of Maine, offered a concurrent resolution for the holiday recess of congress from December 22 to January 5, which was referred to the appropriations committee.

The Cuban question came forward again when Mr. Call presented three separate resolutions. One denounced the killing of Gen. Antonio Maceo as follows:

"Resolved, That the killing of General Antonio Maceo, a renowned general in the service of the republic of Cuba, if true, while under a flag of truce and with assurance of safety, plainly was a violation of the rules of civilized war; an outrage, a base treachery, a murder and disgrace which demands the execration of every government and of all the people of the world, whether civilized or savages; that the government which authorizes, permits or fails to punish the assassins who are connected in any way with the guilt of this crime, with the extreme penalty of the law is an outcast and infamy of nations, and from the pale of civilization and public law; that the committee on foreign relations be directed to make inquiry as to the facts and report to the senate at an early day."

Another resolution by Mr. Call requested the president to demand the release of all United States citizens imprisoned in the Spanish penal colony on the island of Centa, off the coast of Africa.

The third resolution from Mr. Call asked the secretary of state for a list of all United States citizens imprisoned in Spanish settlements, etc., with the circumstances of arrest, conviction, etc.

The three resolutions were referred without comment to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, was then recognized for a speech on his resolution reciting that states have not the power to legislate in such manner as to violate the obligation of contracts.

THE HOUSE.

The reported assassination of Maceo, the Cuban patriot, and its effect on the attitude of this country toward the revolutionists was almost the sole topic of conversation on the floor before the house met today, and there was a general expectation that some radically sensational resolutions would be introduced. No resolutions, however, were offered in open session.

Mr. Dingley, chairman of the ways and means committee, presented a concurrent resolution for a holiday recess from Wednesday, December 23, until Tuesday, January 5. The resolution was adopted without division.

FIRE STARTS A PANIC.

People at Soho, Pa., Trample Each Other in Getting Out.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 14.—A panic occurred in St. Agnes' Roman Catholic church at Soho during the 9 o'clock service yesterday. Father McHugh, the rector, was in the pulpit at the time and was surprised when people began leaving the church. Some boys cried "fire," and a general rush was made by the congregation to get out of the building. The pastor then saw smoke issuing from the sacristy. He ran there and found that it came from a heater. He shouted to the people to remain in their pews, but by this time half the congregation was at the doors trying to get out. One woman was trampled upon, but not seriously injured. The church was partially destroyed by fire about four years ago.

KILLED BY A THIEF.

Bloodhounds Searching for the Murderer at Lamoille.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Dec. 14.—Andrew Hart, son of George W. Hart, a farmer living two miles southeast of Lamoille, was killed by a burglar, two shots entering his side. The robber then sprang through a window, cutting himself considerably and leaving his hat behind.

The boy's father was awakened by the shots and jumped through the broken window after the burglar, but it was too dark to see him, and he escaped. A posse of a hundred men with two or three bloodhounds are seeking for the murderer.

Young Hart was very popular and highly respected in the community. He was on his way down stairs to light the fires when he accosted the robber and met death.

MURDERER FRANTZ.

His Trial Commenced This Morning at Dayton.

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 14.—The trial of Albert J. Frantz for the murder of Bessie Little, his sweetheart, whose badly decomposed body was found in the Stillwater river, a branch of the Miami, in this city, on September 2 last, was commenced today. The whole morning and most of the afternoon was taken up with the empanneling of a jury. Great interest is taken in the case, which rivals the Pearl Bryan murder in its atrocity.

END OF A DRUNK.

Cut His Wife's and His Own Throat at Detroit.

DETROIT, Dec. 14.—Ernest Chase, son of D. E. Chase, of recipe book fame, cut his wife's and his own throat badly this morning in an insane attempt at murder and suicide. Physicians think that both have a good chance of recovery. Chase has been dissipating badly.

WITH A CRASH

Lake Shore Passenger Train Collides With Freight Cars.

Today the Lake Shore train due from the north at 11 o'clock ran onto a siding and crashed into a string of loaded freight cars, near the northside depot.

Several freight cars were derailed and the headlight and pilot were torn from the locomotive. Nobody was seriously hurt.

The accident was caused by an open switch which Engineer Donnelly did not notice in time to prevent it.

Secretary Provey, of the Associated Charities, says there is more demand for assistance at present than at any time since he has had charge of his office. He is surprised to find so many men in the city out of employment. Most of the applicants for jobs are laborers. People who have trades are most all well provided for. A chance is in sight for the employment of many as soon as the work of tearing down the old court house commences. The county commissioners say they will hire a good many hands in connection with that job.

AT HER GRAVE!

E. E. Wright, of Toledo, Ohio, Kills Himself.

The Suicide of a Young Man Because of the Death of the Woman He Loved.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Dec. 14.—Edmund E Wright, a young married man of this city, committed suicide yesterday morning at the grave of Mrs. Claudia Osborn, in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Wright, who was only twenty years of age, was the son of a well known insurance man of this city. Mrs. Osborn was a good looking young woman from Ypsilanti, Mich., who was employed as a stenographer at the office of the E. P. Breckenridge company. Mrs. Osborn died December 4 at St. Vincent's hospital, where she was taken by Mr. Wright, who at that time gave his name as Osborn, and professed to be her husband.

He attended church in the morning with a friend and office companion of Mrs. Osborn, named Mrs. Stabbler. After church they went to the cemetery, where Mr. Wright placed a bouquet on Mrs. Osborn's grave. As they turned away to leave the grounds he stated he was going east in the evening. After going about 100 feet he excused himself and ran back. His companion was horrified to see him fall on his knees at the grave, make the sign of the cross and instantly shoot himself through the heart with a revolver. Running to him, she found him dying, holding a crucifix in one hand and a rosary in the other.

Letters were found in his pocket addressed to various relatives, and one to his father stated that on the day Mrs. Osborn died he had determined to commit suicide. Mrs. Osborn is said to have had a husband living at Ypsilanti.

CANADA MAY GET IT

The Fight Between Corbett and Fitzsimmons.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Local sporting men are discussing a proposition made by a number of men from Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., to have Corbett and Fitzsimmons meet in Canada. The proposition is that a combination be made of well known Buffalo, Toronto and Hamilton citizens and a big purse be offered, the fight to take place in Hamilton. There is a hall in that city capable of holding at least 10,000 people and the Canadians say that they are reasonably sure of non-interference by the authorities. It is said that a Hamilton man, who is pushing the scheme is now in New York with the object of consulting Dan Stuart.

ONE OF THE OLDEST.

A Pennsylvania Bank Closes Its Doors This Morning.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 14.—The first National bank of this place, the oldest bank in this section of the state, and one of the original fifty-seven national banks in the United States, suspended business this morning. The following notice was posted on the front door of the bank: "On account of the heavy drain upon this bank for the past thirty days, and especially the last two or three days, the board of directors have decided to suspend business until further notice."

Martin Kaiser Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 14.—Martin Kaiser, said to be the oldest active German singer of the United States, honorary president of the Philadelphia Maennerichor, of Philadelphia, from 1845 to 1896, one of the founders of the Germania Maennerichoir, of Chicago, and an active singer and worker of the German singing societies of the United States, is dead at his son's home in this city. Martin Kaiser was eighty years of age. Mr. Kaiser possed a "saenger passport" which gave him free and pleasant entry into every German singing society of America and stands today without a counterpart in this country and probably in Europe.

Clemency Sought.

ANDERSON, Ind., Dec. 14.—A petition will be forwarded to the governor asking for clemency for William Stapleton, who was sentenced to the prison north for shooting his son-in-law, Charles Derste. There will be delay occasioned in taking him to the penitentiary in hopes that the petition will have effect. Derste eloped with Stapleton's daughter and later deserted her. There was also strong evidence that he shot first.

Suffering From Famine.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Calcutta Englishman of November 25 contends that the home officials are utterly at fault in regard to the dimensions of the famine. It adds that practically every province is involved and assert that such errors at the outset may result in irretrievable disaster and suffering before the crisis is over.

North Pole Expedition.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—Godart and Surcouf, the aeronauts are about to organize a baloon expedition to the North Pole. They state that the idea was first suggested to them, some three years ago by Walter Wellman, the American journalist, but the idea was given up owing to the attempt of Prof. Andree.

Ready for Another.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Mr. Wheelock G. Veasey, of Vermont, has sent his resignation to the president as a member of the inter-state commerce commission, and it is understood that the nomination of his successor will be sent to the senate today. The new commissioner will be a Vermonter. Mr. Veasey's resignation is due to ill health, resulting from a heat stroke.

CLEVER FORGERY

Was the Contract in the Fair Case,

By Which the Widow of the Millionaire Claims Wealth—Result of Examination.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Experts declare that the ink of Mrs. Craven's contract, by which she claims to be the contract widow of the late James G. Fair, is about a year and a half old, although it bears date May 23, 1892. In the making of the pencil deeds three different lead pencils were used, say the experts, and there are over 100 retouched letters in them. These are two of the most startling results of the examinations of these documents claimed by experts Carvalho and Ames. Seldom, if ever, in the history of litigation, either criminal or civil was such energy devoted to inspecting questionable documents as that found by the celebrated experts at the instance of the administrator of the bonanza king's estate. The pencil will was the first to be scrutinized by the experts, and in their report they say it is by all odds the best piece of forgery. The handwriting they declare is a good imitation of that of Fair, with the exception that while the millionaire was in the habit of using long terminals to letters, the writer of the deeds unconsciously stopped short after completing the word. The deeds the experts intimate were rather clumsily executed. Mrs. Craven has never contended that the body of these instruments was written by Fair, asserting that only his own name and the signature were done by Fair. But the most remarkable thing about these deeds is that if Fair did not write the body of the deeds he must have made some of the letters and words in various sentences according to the expert's theory.

HORSEMAN SLAIN.

Ed Fetters Murdered Near Knox, Ind.

His Partner In Business Charged With the Crime and Has Been Arrested.

KNOX, Ind., Dec. 14.—Never before in the history of this county has so much excitement prevailed as when it became known that a man had been found murdered near this place. William Sutherlin, who lives in Plymouth, had a partner in his business of horse trading. A while ago the partner, Edward D. B. Fitters, was in Knox with Sutherlin, since which time Fitters has not been seen. Friday some farmers discovered a newly made grave, and on opening it they found that it contained the carcass of a skinned mule, but immediately beneath the mule was found the corpse of Ed Fetters.

A coroner's inquest was ordered. The coroner issued his writ to a justice of the peace charging Sutherlin with murder, and he is now confined in jail here. It is expected that the examination will develop evidence that will implicate others in the crime. Sutherlin was seen with blood on his hands, coat and shoes. The prisoner was remanded to jail without bail, and will be given preliminary hearing December 16.

HALE WINS.

Close of Six-Day Bicycle Event at Madison Square Garden.

The Irishman Is Declared the Victor, With 1,910 Miles and Eight Laps to His Credit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Twelve thousand people saw Teddy Hale, the Irish hero of the six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, cross the finish line Saturday night a winner with 1,910 miles and eight laps to his credit. J. S. Rice, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., finished second, with 1,882 miles and six laps to his credit. Twelve riders broke the world's record for 142 hours, made by Albert Schock in 1895, 1,000 miles and one lap. Twenty-eight men started and fifteen rode at the finish. The strain on all has been great and all showed the effects of loss of sleep. Hale and Rice, who finished first and second, were fresher than any of the others. Hale spurted to the end, and between 9 and 10 o'clock made a mile in 2:40 after riding more than 141 hours.

CUBAN SOLDIERS.

Spain's Brutality to Her Prisoners of War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senor Quesada, in charge of the Cuban headquarters, has documents bearing on the treatment of soldiers in Cuba which he intends to use before congress in attempting to secure from that body action favorable to the 'insurgents' cause, and which, he contends, accord to the Cubans the right of belligerency. They assert, he says, that the Spaniards agreed to abide by the terms of the Geneva Red Cross agreement for the treatment of soldiers captured in the war, which they fail utterly to keep, notwithstanding the Cubans treated the Spanish captives with great magnanimity.

TERRIBLE HURRICANE.

Vessel Lost Her Cargo and Two of Her Crew.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—News of a terrible hurricane occurring within the past week has been reported by the officers of the three-masted schooner Bernard Hopkins, which has arrived here. Not only was a great portion of the vessel's cargo lost, but two of her crew were swept overboard, one of whom was rescued, while the other lost his life.

Sugar Syndicate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Unless relief can be had soon from the reichstag the entire sugar industry of Germany is likely to be organized for self protection into a gigantic syndicate or trust with the purpose of regulating production and controlling prices. This is the view of United States Consul Mason at Frankfort, set out in an elaborate report to the state department upon the present state of the sugar industry in Germany.

Troops for Cuba.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 14.—It is claimed by the leaders in the movement to send troops from Colorado to fight for Cuban independence that more than 1,000 names have already been enrolled. John McAndrews, middle-of-the-road populist candidate for attorney general at the recent election, has been chosen commander with the title of colonel.

BALDWIN AFFRAY.

Amos Geisinger Struck With a Neck Yoke.

Assailant Arrested and Brought to This City—Lillie Wagoner Wants $2,000 for Slander.

Sheriff Melching was called to Baldwin this afternoon to take into custody Amos Geisinger, who was arrested there this morning for assaulting Matthew Funk with a wagon neck yoke. Funk was so badly injured by the assault that he was unconscious for a time this morning. The sheriff will bring his prisoner to this city and land him in jail.

Judge Nindo & Son, as attorneys for the plaintiff, have begun a suit in the circuit court asking that their client, Lillie B. Wagoner, be given damages in the sum of $2,000 for slander. The suit is against Mary Wright and her husband, John Wright. The plaintiff claims that Mrs. Wright said she was not a decent woman.

Tomorrow the county treasurer, the recorder and the auditor will being moving their official equipments from the old court house to their new offices in the Saengerbund building. Their offices will be closed for business two days. The courts and the other offices will not move for a week or so yet. The officials will have convenient quarters in the Saengerbund building.

Sheriff Melching was at Woodburn this morning and closed up the general merchandise store of Katzi & Buhrer. Suit has been filed by different creditors, the first claim being one of Bursley & Co., of this city, for $185.

Claflin & Co., who are the heaviest of unsecured creditors, and who entered suit against Louis Wolf and the mortgagees, who are Mrs. Rebecca Wolf, Louis Hirsh, Mrs. Stiefel. These defendants are made to appear. Judge Zollars is conducting the examination and attorneys for all other unsecured creditors are deeply interested in the examination.

TRIED TO PASS CHECKS.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: "A man who said his name was J. H. Blount, called at the Dispatch office today in a drunken condition and exhibited a couple of checks drawn on the First National bank, of this city, and payable to the bearer. One check called for $80 or more and the other for $92.25. He tried to get them cashed, but the clerk declined to accommodate him. Going to the Postal telegraph office the stranger again exhibited his checks, and after some maudlin talk left the place. Police Captain Dealy was told of the circumstances of the stranger's visits, and the officer, finding him on the street, conducted him to the jail office. Blount's pockets were searched, but the checks were not found. The man stated that he hailed from Fort Wayne. He said he was a cattle buyer for a Chicago firm and that he had come to Michigan City from Monon, on his way to Chicago, merely to get drunk. He had a letter from the Chicago firm, addressed to him at Fort Wayne, requesting him to come to Chicago at once and take a car load of cattle to Chicago. Captain Dealy released him and told him to get out of the city."

TRIED A BLUFF.

But It Would Not Go Down With Officer Somers.

He Escorts Two Tough Characters at the Point of a Revolver—Notes in Police Circles.

Officer Somers, of the Pennsylvania company's force, while attempting to arrest two tough characters at the east yards last night met with resistance and he found it necessary to escort them to the station house at the point of a revolver. The pair had come in on freight train No. 77 and when the officer proposed to them a journey to the lockup they said, "Nixey, and you can't make us," or words to that effect. When Somers was on the regular force he was credited with having a good deal of "sand." He still has it, for he made those fellows march in double quick time. The prisoners pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing a ride but they went to jail eleven days in spite of their plea.

ENDEAVOR MEETING.

It Will Probably be Held at Winona Grounds This Year.

The executive committee of the State Christian Endeavor Union met at Indianapolis Saturday for a business session. The committee has the fixing of the place for holding the annual meetings of the union, and several places were talked of for the meeting next summer. It was not definitely decided, but it will probably be held at Winona Park. February 2 was chosen as "mission day," and it will be observed by Endeavorers all over the state. A new plan for carrying on the work was adopted. Hereafter superintendents will be appointed for every county and town to assist the missionary committees. It is the intention of the union to prosecute the work of the good citizenship department with a renewed vigor. Dr. Hindley, of Ridgeville, is superintendent of this department. The committee talked of a route to California for those of this state who wish to attend the national meeting. Several routes were mentioned, but no determination was reached.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

Frank Stutzenberger Discovers a Thief in the Act.

A burglar made an unsuccessful attempt to break into the house of Mrs. Stutzenberger, at 398 East Washington street, last night. The man had already removed the outside shutters, and had raised a window, when Frank Stutzenberger discovered the intruder, who fled.

The death of Mrs. Josephine Sithens, which was caused by heart disease, as stated in THE SENTINEL last Saturday, came suddenly and without warning. She was in her usual health all morning, and although she had lately complained of trouble with her heart, it was thought to be only a slight ailment, and no fears were entertained. She was sitting at the dinner table with her husband, Stephen Sithens, when suddenly, without a word, she fell to the floor. Her husband, alarmed, called for assistance, and a messenger was dispatched for a physician, but before the doctor arrived the vital spark had fled. The deceased was forty-six years of age and leaves a husband to mourn her loss alone. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 127 West Superior street.

Is the Strength of the Battery of Lights

Placed in the C. W. Miner Art Studio by the F. W. Edmonds Co.

Commencing this evening, the Charles W. Miner Art Studio, at No. 23 West Wayne street, will be open every evening until Christmas for the taking of photographs by his incomparable system of electric lights. There have been different contrivances invented for the taking of pictures after night, but the system now in use in the Miner gallery far excels any ever invented heretofore.

The system originated with Mr. Miner, and the work was performed by the F. W. Edmunds Electrical Construction company, under Mr. Miner's personal supervision, and is as fine a piece of electrical work as was ever built in this city. Under the old system of taking photographs by electric light, the reflected rays of an arc light were used, but by Mr. Miner's new invention the direct light from a 5,000 candle power battery of incandescent lights are used with much more satisfactory results. The light is directed on the sitter through a pure white diffusing screen, and by a system of switches and screens can be directed wherever the artist desires. Mr. Miner's recently patented invention has been examined by all the leading members of the State and National Photographers' association, and without a single exception, pronounced by all these gentlemen to be the finest arrangement in existence for this class of work. This addition without a doubt puts Mr. Miner's gallery in the front rank in this country and he has the distinction of possessing something which is not to be found in any other studio in the wide world. Everything else in Mr. Miner's studio is of the same high class as his light system and his facilities for the rapid turning out of work are of the best. Pictures taken either day or night can be delivered to the sitter in ten or twelve hours from the time of placing the order, and any work promised for Christmas will be delivered promptly on time. Mr. Miner has a reputation for his skill in producing all the new styles of finishing so dear to the hearts of studio patrons, and he has in his possession medals awarded by the national association for the high character of his work. Take a glance at the handsome case at the corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets and be convinced for yourself of the kind of work Mr. Miner is turning out.

Congress is tinkering with the tariff bill again. The people would be better off if our senators and representatives would let the tariff alone for a while. The frequent changes in the rates disturbs business.

Senator Turpie, of Indiana, has prepared a number of amendments which he intends to offer to the naval appropriation bill. If they should prevail, they would materially change the law relating to the navy.

The churches of this city are preparing for a great spiritual awakening and the signs of the times indicate that they will witness soul saving revivals this winter. In some of them meetings of this character are already in progress.

Representative Boatner, of Louisiana, has introduced a bill increasing the salary of the speaker of the house from $8,000 to $10,000, and of the senators and representatives from $5,000 to $7,500. The people will not favor an increase in the salaries of our national legislators.

The Sentinel is in receipt of a little volume, which, under the title of "Polly Pods," gives a number of the poems of Senator S. B. McManus, of Lima, Ind., who is well known in this city. Mr. McManus is an entertaining writer and his verses are always excellent in their literary character.

The Indiana state board of commerce will hold its third annual meeting in the assembly room of the Commercial club, of Indianapolis, beginning at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, December 29, and ending at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. All the counties, townships, cities, towns and commercial organizations of the state are invited to send delegates.

Hon. Wallace Bruce, who is to lecture at the Masonic Temple in a few weeks, is one of the most entertaining and instructive platform speakers in the country. He has spoken twice in this city to large and appreciative audiences and those who heard him before will be glad to welcome the return of the eloquent and witty poet.

The merchants who are catching the trade just now—or at any time during the year, for that matter—are those who are advertising and letting the people know of the goods they have for sale. To test the truth of this assertion, just compare the activity around the store of the man who does advertise and the one who doesn't. The newspaper is the best medium, too.

State Auditor Daily has, by direction of the state finance board, issued a warrant for another payment of $200,000 on the permanent debt of the state. With this payment the permanent debt has been reduced $800,000 this year. State officers point out that it is the best record the state has ever made in one year in a financial way, and they are proud of the work accomplished. It is announced that on April 1 next the state will pay off the $140,000 of three and one-half temporary loan bonds, which become payable on that date.

The Shame of Spain.

It is not creditable to the people of Spain that the reported death of Maceo has led to the most excessive and at times riotous demonstration in different parts of that country. The barbarous enthusiasm of the Spanish people over the reported death of the great Cuban soldier, wrought them to such a frenzy that the United States legation in Madrid required the special protection of the police and military. Considering that Maceo's only crime has been to offer his life for the disenthralment of his people, and that he has surpassed all in individual heroism in the conflict, any other than a barbarous nation would pay decent respect to so brave a soldier, when he fell at the front of his command, but Spain seems to be wild with fiendish delight because the great negro general has finally fallen before the Spanish army.

In beautiful contrast with the people of Spain was the conduct of the American press and people in 1863 when Stonewall Jackson, the Maceo of Lee's army, was killed at Chancellorsville. While the loyal people of the north rejoiced that the cause of the insurgents had been weakened by the loss of one of its most dangerous chieftains, there was generous tribute paid from loyal lips to the heroism and grandeur of the Christian soldier who had given his life to maintain his convictions; and today the American people rank Lee and Jackson with Grant and Sheridan as heroes who were equally sincere in their faith and exhibited equal fidelity to what they believed to be patriotic duty.

Maceo emerged from the ten years' war for the freedom of Cuba bearing the scars of twenty-three wounds, and in the present rebellion, although leading one of the chief armies of the insurgents, he has been equally fearless and has been many times in the forefront of the charge.

Spain in her wild and fiendish demonstrations over the reported death of Maceo furnishes to the world additional evidence of her unfitness to govern Cuba, and it will do much to weaken the little sympathy remaining in this country for the Spanish government.

CHARLEY BOOKWALTER.

Republican Candidate for Mayor at Indianapolis.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

For some time past it has been conceded that Charles A. Bookwalter would have the inside track for the republican nomination for mayor and there are those of his friends who have said that it would simply be a walk-away with him in the convention whenever it may be held. Yesterday, however, it became known that W. N. Harding, of the law firm of Harding & Hovey and a cousin of County Commissioner Henry Harding, had already entered actively upon the work of setting up his pins for the nomination as against Bookwalter.

A movement is on foot to consolidate all of the independent military companies of the city into one body. If effected, the organization would consist of the Grays, Hibernian Rifles and companies to be made up from the younger members of the Order of Lincoln and the Walther league. It is expected that a regiment of 500 men could thus be formed. Of the military organizations here only three are in the service of the state—the Rifles, True Blues and Zollinger Battery. The others are independent companies, not affiliated with the Indiana national guard.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A Week's Doings in the Young Women's Christian Association.

First Contest in Basket Ball Will be Held Tonight—Embroidery Class Tuesday Afternoon—Notes.

The state letter was received by the association this week. This letter is sent out from the headquarters of the state committee of the Y. W. C. A. each month. It contains the chief items of interest from the associations all over the state. This month's letter also contained an outline Bible study by Miss Carrie B. Sharp, of Westminster seminary.

The union meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. held at the Third Presbyterian church was one of great interest. The association's object, methods, principles, and its relation to the church were presented to the audience by the general secretaries of the organizations, and the audience received definite knowledge of the work which is being done in the city.

The afternoon embroidery class meets on Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock instead of Monday.

The first contest game of basket ball will be played tonight. The teams represented by Misses Yarnelle, Griffiths, Gregg and Davis will play. The two teams scoring the greatest number of points will then oppose one another for forty minutes actual play. The young women who play basket ball are looking forward with anticipation to the tournament games, which will be played some time in the early spring. Before that time there will be many contest games for practice, between the teams represented by the Misses Lund, Kern, Woodworth, Bradley, Page, McKay, Bannister, Biddle and Maxwell.

The interest taken in Bible study is manifested by the fact that the classes are increasing in numbers. Miss Sharp's class, which meets at 8 o'clock on Monday night, is studying in the book of Exodus.

At the last meeting of the Thursday night class an especial study was made of the "Personality, Office and Work of the Holy Spirit" in connection with the first twelve verses of the second chapter of Acts.

Next Thursday the remainder of the chapter will be studied. Any young women may join or attend this class.

A number of the association members who attend the basket ball games from 7 to 8 Saturday evening have joined the Saturday night Bible class to study the Gospel according to Matthew. It is hoped that anyone who wishes to study one of these three books systematically will feel at liberty to attend any of the classes whenever it is possible.

The state board of charities recommends that the contracts by which federal prisoners are received into the prisons be discontinued. There are now 150 federal prisoners in the Indiana prisons. These prisoners, it is pointed out, are a continual source of annoyance to the management, because they cannot be subjected to the same punishment that may be inflicted upon state prisoners. It is also recommended that the legislature regulate the visits of people to the penitentiaries whose only interest is one of morbid curiosity.

PARTY POLICY.

The Democracy Will Adhere to the Silver Issue.

Views of Senator R. C. Bell and Governor Matthews on the Future of the Party.

In the Chicago Times-Herald a number of replies from prominent democrats are published this morning in answer to the following questions which that paper sent out for the purpose of securing their views as to what will be done in the way of reorganizing the democratic party, and what is likely to be accomplished in the way of reorganization before the next congressional election: (1). The probable basis of reorganization.

(2). Is the silver issue likely to be abandoned?

(3). Will the gold and silver wings come together?

Hon. R. C. Bell, of this city, was one of the democrats written to by the Times-Herald and his reply was as follows:

"Fort Wayne, Ind., Dec. 13.—Answering your several inquiries: First, I see no necessity for a reorganization of the democratic party. In my judgment it is now cleaner, better organized and more powerful than ever before. It has got rid of a lot of people identified with the trusts and capitalistic interests of the country, especially those of New York and the east, and New England, and is well rid of them. No happier result could well be attained. For more than a quarter of a century these people have selfishly dictated the policy of the party and its nominations. They will never be able to do so again.

"The silver issue, in my opinion, will not be abandoned. The more the question is agitated the stronger it will become until the free and unlimited coinage of silver must and will obtain.

"The gold and silver wings of the democratic party will not come together. The gold wing is in such an insignificant minority that it is scarcely worth considering. The feeling against those who called themselves the gold wing is so intense and so bitter that it cannot be mollified even by years of time. There is a widespread conviction that these people were in such a minority that they should have yielded their judgment to the great majority of the party, and that the fight will have to go on to a finish. The result shows that these people were not honest and did not vote for their own candidate, and other democrats would rather vote for republicans than for them for any office. There is a like conviction that the republican party itself will have to come to bimetallism if it is to live. Many thousands of republicans who really believe in the free coinage of silver were only held in line in the last campaign by a vigorous application of the party lash. This cannot be done again.

"R. C. Bell."

The reply of Governor Matthews was as follows:

"There is but one democratic party, and that was the one which stood on the Chicago platform and supported Bryan for president. There will be but one democratic party in 1900, and it will be composed of the same kind of men as those who have been loyal to democracy and democratic principles this year. Mr. Cleveland and bolting democrats may organize a new party, and march under the single gold standard, but they cannot reorganize the democratic party on the Indianapolis platform, or any other. The democratic party will be true to its traditions and principles, not as Mr. Cleveland would interpret them, but as it has ever been, the party of bimetallism and the party of the people.

"The silver issue will not, by any means be abandoned. It will be the main and leading issue, both two years and four years from now.

"The democratic party will keep open its doors and receive back its bolting members when they have seen the error of their way. Nearly all will return, save the self constituted leaders of the bolting movement, who for selfish purposes misled and deceived others."

For Health or Wealth.

A winter spent in Arizona may save your life. It's not the desert you imagine. It has a climate unsurpassed for healthfulness, with soils that are richer than those in the valley of the Nile. Peopled by a class of law-abiding, progressive citizens, offers inducements in the culture of fruit that equal, if not outweigh, in value the productions of her older sister states. Phoenix, in the Salt river valley, has 12,000 people, with all the conveniences of modern civilization, massive business blocks, handsome suburban homes, seven schools, nine churches, electric street railway cars, electric lights, city water and modern sewerage system, and penetrated by one of the largest railway systems in the United States, the Southern Pacific. Its productions are unexcelled by any other portion in the cultivation of staple grains and many of the tropical fruits. The price of land is low, including a perpetual water right. There are but few of the eastern farmers who are aware of the fact that in this very valley there are 150,000 acres of land now under cultivation, and the richest soil on the face of the earth. For routes, rates, maps or other information apply to any representative of the Southern Pacific, who will take pleasure in answering your inquiries and giving you specially-prepared literature.

BABOO ENGLISH.

Some Unique Examples of How It Is Expressed in India.

Captain F. M. Randall copied the certificates of a dumb man encountered upon his interesting mission to Nepaul—for the purpose of raising a second battalion to the renowned Third ghoorkas. Didar Singh, schoolmaster of the Twenty-first N. I., wrote: "This poor Brahmin seems to be deprived of speaking organ. It appears from his several certificates that his family also is deprived of some organ or other. All people who wish to show pity on poors will help this poor Brahmin. Signed," etc. A second was fascinating as a cryptograph, "This Brahmin I hope the other gentleman support to them and cannot speak and have talk." A third pointed out that "this fellow is certainly too miserable on account of his being both deaf and dumb. He wants help from the public for God's sake. Paid 4 annas." A fourth urged: "Please any small donation may be given to the bearer of this book. He is actually dumb and more so. Very poor." Another kind soul took the opportunity to repeat the "beatitudes" in this fashion, "Blessed are they that their persecution for ritousness sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Finally there was a testimonial bearing the mystic signature "Loftus:" "Hoping that everybody shall help the man as far as they can. The bearer of this, I presume a Brahmin, is apparently dumb as I have by subjecting him to a test on this point though it might be questioned whether he only sustains life on milk if so milk must be truly nourishing diet as his phisical condition testifies this of course does not alter the fact that he is really deserving of support which I hope the Chandari populace will afford him."

Lady Dufferin has recorded some examples in her own experience. Telegrams from a station master during an outbreak of cholera: "All railway Baboos assembled. To stay here is in death. What can Baboo give in exchange for his soul? In anticipation of sanction we all leave tonight." During the viceregal stay at Mysore a servant of the maharajah used to offer her ladyship a bouquet every morning with the words, "A delicate attention." Finally he presented a petition signed: "G. P. Don Juan. Talented Lepidoptera." "Here's another brilliant conception," said he in delivering it. A protege wrote to Lady Dufferin, "You have been very kind to me, and may God Almighty give you tit for tat." It is not for want of matter that I stop. Yet, to balance the account, here is one from the other side, which I cannot guarantee, however. It is told in India that when Sir Salar Jung offered his nuzzur (present) to her majesty the English press made him offer a mugger (crocodile).—Frederick Boyle in Westminster Gazette.

Joan of Arc on the Battlefield.

In battle her courage was fearless, and well it was that it was so, for each success was dearly bought, her indomitable energy alone inspiring her faint hearted followers. When her troops threatened retreat, it was by throwing herself into the thick of the fight, crying, "They are ours!" that she turned defeat to victory. Often wounded, she disdained the pain of her mangled flesh and remained on the field as an example to her men. A gracious woman withal, her pity was even greater than her courage, braving and receiving blows, but never returning them. She had but one weapon, her banner, for her sword never left its scabbard. Later she was to say that she "loved her banner a thousand times more than her sword." At night, when the heat of battle was assuaged, her tears fell at the thought of the wounded and the dead. "I have never seen French blood shed without my hair standing on end," was one of her naive utterances. The enemy commanded her pity as well, and she was as often seen assisting the dying English as her own people. Thus she was not only the mind which directs, she was likewise the heart filled with sympathy, the soul solicitous of the welfare of other souls, intuitively understanding that the soldier who fights the best is he whose heart is pure. In the same spirit she lightened the burden of the army by curtailing useless luggage, and she drove away the disreputable women who had followed the camp and with them the debauchery and disorder which they had brought. On the other hand, she gently admonished her soldiers to clear their consciences, to be virtuous and religious as well as brave.—"The National Hero of France," by Maurice Boutet de Monvel, in Century.

Infelicitous Candor.

A certain good minister of Indiana lost from his flock a prominent parishioner, and, wishing to have good music at the funeral, a quartet was summoned. When the time arrived for the singing, the minister announced:

"The Glee club will now render a selection."—Short Stories.

They Were Kin.

"The best joke I ever heard was on me," said J. O. Buford to a reporter.

"I was in Wise county, Va., in the heart of the mountains, in the southwestern part of the Old Dominion. I am a Virginian, and in common with all loyal Virginians claim kinship with every one of my name in the state. The landlord saw my name on the register.

"'So yo' name's Buford?' he said.

"'Yes.'

"'Uster be sum Bufords hyar.'

"'Well, they must have been relatives. My family are all Virginians.'

"'Yaas. Yo' do favor 'em. Reckon yo' all air kin. Yo' look jess like Dave.'

"'My father's name was Dave.'

"'Thar war three—Bob, John and Dave.'

"'I have uncles by those names. They are family names.'

"'Yo' sho' air kin. I thought so, mind I looked at yo'.'

"'You say the Bufords moved away?'

"'Not azackly.'

"'I thought you said they used to live here?'

"'That's what I sed. Yo' see, John an Dave was Bob's sons. The ole man was gwine fer marry agin, so the boys wouldn't git the little propity the ole man had, an they killed 'im; so we hung John an Dave.'

"I did not trace the relationship or the family resemblance any farther."—Washington Star.

THE HORSE.

How an Equine Friend Was Regarded and Treated in Ancient Times.

It is perhaps small matter for wonder that the nations who first tamed the horse for riding attached high honor to the creature, seated on whose back they scoured with such swiftness. The exhilaration of riding is one which custom does not stale and which affects the civilized rider of today, if he be of an emotional nature, probably almost as keenly as it did the ancient Scythian, German or Slav. In addition to this, neighboring races who had not this art looked upon those who had it with a kind of superstitious wonder, weaving strange stories about them. The horsemen of Thessaly appeared to the other Greeks through a mist of fables as centaurs, half man, half brute, but wholly divine. And in the frank fashion of all primitive people the horseman gave back to the horse the glory that he received reflected from it and made of his comrade in war and chase a kind of deity.

The ancient Germans took oracles from white horses, just as the Egyptians did from their sacred oxen. The animals were kept in groves and gave augury by neighing. Among the Slavs the sword combined with the horse to foretell future events. The weapons were planted in the ground, and the horses led among them. By the movements of the beasts the attending priests judged the will of the gods. Among the Norsemen the sacrifice of a horse and the eating of its flesh was a token of sacramental allegiance to Odin.

Among the ancient Irish, when a king was crowned in Ulster, it was customary to slay a white mare and boil it in a vat. Into this vat the newly made king descended and there sat, drinking the broth and tasting small portions of the meat. The eating of horseflesh was so well recognised as a heathen rite that the early Christian saints forbade it to their converts. Among the Scythians the horse was deemed sacred to the sun, and its worship crossed the Himalayas and was early established among the Rajput kings.

Next to a human being, who probably was, as a matter of fact, never sacrificed in ancient India, the horse was the most acceptable offering to the gods. It is laid down in the Puranas that the sacrificer of 100 horses ousts Indra, the king of the gods, from his throne and reigns in paradise (swarga) in his stead. There is no record, however, of any one having earned this surpassing felicity. Kings, on attaining the throne, usually sacrificed a horse, their tributary princes performing the more menial duties connected with the aswamedha (horse sacrifice). Indeed, even the office of porter in this solemn rite could only be assumed by one of royal blood. One of the books of the great Hindoo epic, the Mahabharata, contains an account of the ashwamedha held by Yudhisthira, king of the Pandus, when he had, by the defeat of the Karavas, firmly established his rule over northern India. The sacred horse was turned loose to wander wherever it listed for a year, while the loyal army followed it everywhere at a respectful distance. Other tribes whose pastures it crossed were given the option of either turning out in force to join the triumph of the horse or of accepting wager of battle. At the end of the year the horse was led back to the palace and there sacrificed.—London Standard.

Alumina.

Announcement is made of a process invented by Helbling, says the London Chemist, for producing alumina from clay in a form absolutely free from silica and readily convertible into sulphate and other aluminic salts. The clay is incorporated with a mixture of equal parts of ammonium and potassium sulphates in the proportion of three molecules of ammonium sulphate to each molecule of alumina, this mixture being pressed into the form of hollow bricks and heated in a furnace to 270 to 280 degrees C. Gaseous ammonia and acid ammonium sulphate are given off at this temperature, while acid potassium sulphate is formed and combines with the alumina of the clay to form alum. The alum is leached from the bricks with water and freed from iron by recrystallization, and the insoluble silica which remains behind may be employed in the manufacture of cements. By spreading out the powdered alum in thin layers on shelves arranged in a vertical tower on passing over it the warm, moist ammoniacal vapors from the brick oven, the alum is transferred into alumina, which retains the form of the original powder.

Association With the Highest.

In all societies it is advisable to associate, if possible, with the highest, not that the highest are always the best, but because, if disgusted there, we can at any time descend; but, if we begin with the lowest, to ascend is impossible. In the grand theater of human life a box ticket takes us through the house.—Colton.

His Donation.

"Mr. Close," said a member of the finance committee of the proposed new Baptist church of Smithville, "we have not asked you for a contribution for the church, but some one suggested that you might like to give us a $10 gold-piece to put in the cornerstone."

"Are you sure it would go into the cornerstone and be bricked up?"

"Quite sure."

"Then I'll give you my check for the amount, which you can put in instead of the cash."—Truth.

COVERED WITH HUMOR

When I was fifteen years old I began to have sore eyes and ears, and from my ears a humor spread. I doctored with five different skilful doctors, but they did me no good. My disease was Eczema. By this time it had gone all over my head, face, and body. Nobody thought I would live, and would not have but for Cuticura Remedies. I used four boxes of Cuticura, five cakes of Cuticura Soap, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. My hair all came out at that time, but now it is so thick I can hardly comb it. I am sixteen years old, weigh 128 pounds, and am perfectly well.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

FORTY YEARS

OF SUFFERING FROM PILES.

Remarkable Cure of Popular Major Dean of Columbus, Ohio.

People who suffer from that annoying and obstinate disease will be gratified to learn that science has discovered a safe, convenient and simple cure for every form of piles, as the experience of the popular Major Dean of Columbus, Ohio, amply attests. The Major says: I would like to add my name to the thousands who have been cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure. I know from experience that it is the only remedy on earth that will effectually cure piles; plenty of remedies give relief for a time, but as for a lasting cure I had tried all the salves, lotions, etc., without success. Six boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure entirely removed all traces of a case of piles of forty years standing.

You may rest assured that the Pyramid Pile Cure has no staunchor advocate than myself.

I feel that it is my duty to allow you to use my name in any way you may see fit, in order that other sufferers may thus be diverted to what I feel certain will be a speedy relief and cure.

The Pyramid Pile Cure gives instant relief and a permanent cure in all kinds of blind, bleeding, itching piles.

It is absolutely free from opiates, cocaine and similar poisons, so common in pile cures.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.

A book on cause and cure of Piles will be sent free by addressing the Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

A DANDY RUN.

The Wabash's Flyer Breaks the Long-Distance Record.

Conductor Jackson Painfully Injured—Another Railway Project—Several Accidents.

No. 1, the Wabash flyer, which is the fastest train crossing the state of Indiana, made a remarkable run last night, when it traveled 252 miles in 313 minutes, including eleven full stops, one to exchange engines, and a half-dozen or more slow-ups. The Lake Shore train, from which the flyer gets its eastern mail matter at Toledo, was late in reaching that city, and the Wabash train did not get out of Toledo until 5:17 o'clock, fifty-two minutes late. But it went into Tilton at 10:30, the exact moment at which it is due at that point. The average running time of the train, including stops, was forty-eight and six-tenth miles per hour. If we deduct the time consumed in stops, which was fully thirty minutes, it will be seen that the speed attained by the train was over a mile a minute a great portion of the distance. This time has been beaten, but not by a regular train, and in this particular the run is the more phenomenal.

CONDUCTOR INJURED.

J. P. Jackson met with a painful accident at Lima last Saturday. While standing in his caboose the train broke in two and the air brakes tightened up so suddenly that he was thrown down, striking on the edge of a seat and breaking three ribs. Mr. Jackson was for a number of years employed on the Pittsburg road and resided in this city until two or three years ago, when he took a position on the Lake Erie and Western road. He is now engaged as a conductor on the latter line. His many friends here will be pained to learn of his misfortune.

The Brewers' union held a meeting yesterday and elected the following officers:

President—John Lohman.
Vice President—Michael Funk.
Secretary—Fred Sauerteig.
Financial Secretary—Ernest Burkhard.
Treasurer—Herman Muldendorf.
Trustees—A. Eichel, Jacob Shadel and Michael Funk.

The union is in a prosperous condition, both as to finances and membership.

CHEAP RATES TO SETTLERS.

It is announced that the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways have made a $25 rate for settlers and members of their families from St. Paul to the Pacific coast points. This is equivalent to a reduction of one half of the present first class rate. Officials of the west immigration association have been working a year to secure such a rate but at first encountered difficulties in the way of railroad agents and particularly that of the Western Passenger association. Officers of the two roads named have since been able to so adjust matters as to make such a rate possible.

THE FIREMAN'S RESPONSIBILITY.

A veteran engineer on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road was interviewed by a reporter of a Pittsburg paper. He admitted that he had to depend a great deal on his fireman to get over the road with a fast train on time, and that the efficiency of the fireman did not consist in being able to shovel coal alone, as so many misinformed people supposed. He said that when running at a high rate of speed there were many things the fireman had to watch. Numerous signals are on the wrong side of the road for the engineer to see them, and unless he can depend on the fireman to watch for them on his side they cannot be approached at full speed. A negligent or inexperienced fireman would manage to be shoveling coal in the furnace just when he ought to be looking ahead, but the careful fireman who wants to help the engineer along will so time his periods for firing up that he will be invariably on the lookout, and the cheerful word, "white block," called out from the left side of the cab, is like the seamen's cry of "all is well," and gives the man at the throttle confidence. Then again, it takes a man of experience to properly fire a fast engine. The coal must be put in at the right time and in the proper place and in the correct quantity, and with due regard for quality as well. The careful knight of the scoop knows just the kind of coal he needs when a fast run is to be made, and he takes a delight in watching the steam gauge register 160 or 175 pounds while the machine is worked to its full capacity. An honest engineer values his honest fireman, and never fools at home when he is not on the engine, and the fireman generally reciprocates and tries to maintain the esteem of the engineer. Many a good engineer has failed to make a record simply because he did not have the confidence and respect of his fireman, or tried to abuse the worthy man, whose care and experience enables fast trains to make schedule time.

EVIDENTLY A MISTAKE.

Sunday morning the Chicago Times-Herald published the following startling item:

"Bracy & McNair, of this city, have been awarded the contract of constructing twenty-eight miles of track between Fort Wayne and Lake Wawasee, Ind. The contract price is $275,000."

THE SENTINEL reporter canvassed the city pretty thoroughly this morning in search of some one who could enlighten him upon this new railway project, but was unable to find any who had even heard of such a proposed line. The Wabash is considering the construction of a line from Ashley to Chili, connecting its main line with the Chicago-Detroit branch, and this may be the line meant by the writer of the above item. The distance between those two points is about twenty-eight miles. Wawasee is better known here as Turkey lake. It is forty miles from Fort Wayne.

BRIEF MENTIONS.

The Hartford City window glass factories resumed operations today after a long idleness.

E. O. Campbell has resumed charge of the elevator at the electric works, after a week's illness.

L. G. Schmidt, an employe of the cast shops, is unable to work on account of injuries received a few days ago.

B. F. Streck, of the bridge and building department of the Wabash, spent Sunday in the city with his family.

William Brossard, one of the veteran blacksmiths in the Pittsburg shops, is suffering with rheumatism and is unable to work.

Boilermaker F. W. Schafer has returned to his work in the Pittsburg shops after a week's absence on account of an injured hand.

Machinist Julius Koch has returned from Lima, Ohio, where he attended the funeral of his nephew, Fred Koch, last Saturday.

Master Mechanic G. W. Mudd, of Springfield, Ill., was in the city a few hours this morning and called upon some of his old friends.

Fred Brink, of the Pittsburg planing mills, is detained at home by the illness of one of his children, who is in a precarious condition.

The Bass blacksmith shop, which had been shut down for a few days on account of repairs, resumed operations this morning with a full force.

Harry Young, of the electric works, who had his shoulder dislocated by a fall a short time ago, has recovered and resumed his place in the shop.

Joseph Woolf took his place in the Pittsburg shops this morning after a two weeks' seige with his old enemy, the rheumatism. He is a tool dresser.

James Trythall and M. H. Morrison, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, are off duty pending repairs to their furnace, which are now under way.

Im Smith, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, has moved into the house at the corner of Wallace and Monroe streets, recently vacated by Joseph Drihot.

R. Martin, a laborer employed at the cast shops, had a finger mashed Saturday, while assisting in unloading a car of lumber. He will be off duty several days.

Dr. E. F. Wagner has gone to Cleveland on business connected with his office, that of medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association.

A. Hobrock, a tinner, has recovered from an illness which kept him from his work three or four days and this morning reported at the Pittsburg shops for duty.

Central passenger committee lines have been asked to vote on a proposition for reduced rates for the national monetary convention to be held in Indianapolis January 12.

John Sanders and Peter Weisner, of the Pittsburg paint shop, have gone to the hunting grounds in western Indiana, to spend a week in shooting whatever game comes their way.

James Roche, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, has returned to work after a three weeks' absence on account of a broken rib. Henry Dryer, of the same shop, has also resumed work after a short sickness.

Horace Walton, the well known passenger brakeman on the Pittsburg road, has recovered from an illness which kept him from his duties over three weeks. He will go out on his regular run tonight.

The Wabash will in a few days commence moving a lot of mules from St. Louis to New York for shipment to Africa. The company's agent last Saturday closed a contract to carry 1,000 of these animals to New York and the number may be increased very materially before the expiration of the contract time.

The Wabash has put in a side track from its detroit line to the Indiana Pipe Line company's pumping station at Roann.

Oliver Foncannon, the paper hanger, was called to Bluffton Saturday to consult with a committee of Masons, relative to the proposed decoration of the Masonic hall in that city.

Charles Pape, the head of the Neff Water Works company, has returned from Milford, Ind., where he attended the funeral yesterday of Mr. Neff, the inventor and one of the owners of the patent.

No. 1, the fast line on the Wabash, made a phenomenal run a few days ago, when it traveled from Decatur to East St. Louis, a distance of 110 miles, in 122 minutes. This included three stops.

Considerable live stock is traveling eastward now for exportation. A few days ago a train of twenty-five cars, carrying 400 head of cattle bound for Liverpool, passed through this city over the Pittsburg road.

Henry Woenker, who resigned a position in the Pittsburg shops a few weeks ago to accept one in the Erie shops at Huntington, did not like his situation in that city and has returned to Fort Wayne. He will probably return to the Pittsburg shops.

Frank Girard is not making satisfactory progress toward health. This morning his condition was reported to be worse than it has been at any time since he was taken ill. He suffers with kidney trouble. Mr. Girard works in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop.

William F. Kelly leaves tonight for his home, in Austin, Texas, where he will spend the holidays with his parents. Mr. Kelly has been taking a course in electricity for the past year at the electric works and will return after the holidays and finish his studies.

Fort Wayne railroad men are in receipt of an invitation to a grand union ball to be given by the Huntington branches of the various railway organizations on the evening of December 31, the receipts to go to the Home for Disabled and Aged Railway Employes, at Chicago.

W. E. Lytton, ticket agent for the Lake Erie and Western at Montpelier, sent a bullet into his heart Saturday last, killing himself instantly. The deed was committed at Bradford, Ohio, where the man had gone evidently for that purpose. Lytton had been in the service of the company only a few months.

Switchman Lehnecke, who had a hand crushed a few days ago in the east yards, is getting along as well as could be expected from one who was so badly injured. He is walking about his room and is quite cheerful. There are three brothers in the Lehnecke family, and all are switchmen, and this is the first time an accident has happened to either.

Passenger trainmen on the Big Four are disturbed over the apparent disposition on the part of the officials to reorganize the service. A few days ago three of the oldest men in the service were dismissed and their places filled by others. The deposed men were conductors who were supposed to stand well with the officials. It is feared that more removals will follow.

The proposition to issue a 5,000 mile ticket, good over all the roads in the Central Traffic territory, meets with opposition from an unexpected quarter. Those opposed to the plan argue that in thus placing the business of a number of railroads in the hands of an individual or an association having an interest in the business of any one, the officials are violating the conditions and provisions of the anti-trust law and become amenable to the United States statute bearing upon that question.

W. M. Six, of Lebanon, Ind., has patented what he calls a "time indicator" for announcing the hour at which trains will reach a station. The indicator is operated by the telegraph operator without leaving his seat at the instrument and it tells its story in a succinct and clear manner. A state law which provides for the blackboard system now in vogue may interfere with the adoption of Mr. Six's plan, but if his method is better than the old, the law may be changed so as to admit of its adoption.

A novel suit is now pending in Delaware county, wherein a lady asks $700 damages from a railway company for obstructing the view from her house. South of a village on a high knoll the fair plaintiff has her home, and from the front window she could see the main street of the town and could even recognize her acquaintences. But that was some months ago. Now when she directs her vision through her sitting room window an unsightly railway overhead bridge looms up, cutting off the view of the street. She says she has become very lonesome since she can no longer look out of her window and see her friends and that the sum of $700 will about square matters between herself and the defendant railroad company.

The announcement made in a European paper that the section of the trans-Siberian railway extending from Cheliabinsk, on the eastern slope of the Ural mountains, to the Obi river, nearly 900 miles, was opened to traffic on October 27, recalls the fact that this great work is steadily, if slowly, proceeding toward completion. It is now possible to go from St. Petersburg or Moscow to Kolivan, a distance of 1,800 miles, without change of cars, in less than five days. The announcement further means that the greatest military and commercial railway undertaking of modern times is now in a fair way to be realized. Writers have instanced in comparison the building of the Pacific railroad lines in this country and in Canada. But the Siberian line is unique in some respects. When completed it will be the longest stretch of railroad track ever laid. The Canadian Pacific, from Montreal to Vancouver, is 2,900 miles long, whereas the Siberian railroad, as projected, will be fully 4,700 miles of continuous track. Traversing, as it will throughout its entire length, Russian territory bordering upon the possessions of two other empires, it promises to have military possibilities of surpassing interest. The climatic and engineering conditions under which much of the work must be done rank it as a most remarkable undertaking, aside from its immense cost and the large number of people employed in the work. The Engineering News states that the estimated cost per mile of work on the railway varies from $11,725 on the Cheliabinsk section, that already completed, to $89,327 per mile on the section from Irkutsk east, which includes work on the Baikal Basin and in the mountains east of that.

The midwinter school of agriculture, in connection with Purdue university, will begin January 4, closing March 19. The course of instruction will embrace live stock husbandry and veterinary hygiene, farm dairying, soils, crops, manures and farm buildings, horticulture, economic botany and entomology, agricultural chemistry, farm sanitation, vegetable parasites and rural law, shop work in wood, practical lectures by stockmen, farmers and horticulturists, all of which will be open to male and female pupils. There will also be a special course for women, including floriculture, household chemistry, house sanitation and domestic economy.

A Feminine General.

She was visiting in the city, and she was the prettiest girl in the room. When she stood up to sing, the other girls regarded her anxiously. A pretty girl who can sing is doubly dangerous, and they considered that the visitor had already received more than her proper share of masculine attention.

While she was arranging her music and whispering to the accompanist the two girls just behind the piano were exchanging confidences.

"I do think it's a shame," said the first girl vexedly. "She's captured all the men already with her airs and graces, and if she sings well—and I just know she does—we won't have a bit of fun tonight."

"Oh, yes, we will," answered the second girl, smiling happily. "We'll be all right."

But the other was not to be so easily consoled.

"I wonder who asked her to sing?" she fretted. "It must have been some one who knows all about her little tricks, too, for all the girls in the club are talking about it."

"I asked her," said the second girl calmly. "You'll know why in a minute. Just wait a bit."

Two minutes later the first girl leaned over the other and touched her arm.

"Why, she makes awful faces," she whispered delightedly. "She's positively ugly when she opens her mouth that way."

"I know it," responded the second girl, with a satisfied smile. "That's why I asked her to sing."

"You clever darling!" exclaimed the first girl, and only the fact that there were others present kept them from hugging each other as they urged the visitor to sing again.—Chicago Tribune.

The assembly grounds of Rome City, Ind., which have been a very popular resort for church people of Fort Wayne and northeastern Indiana for the past few summers, will be sold at sheriff's sale this week to satify claims aggregating $9,000. The United Telephone company is waiting to receive a shipment of wire that is to be used in the construction of the long distance line to connect Huntington and Fort Wayne and other places in eastern Indiana and northwestern Ohio. The poles have all been erected and the only thing that now delays the work is the failure of the wire to arrive. As soon as it comes the line will be completed and Huntington will then be placed in direct communication with towns and cities that have heretofore been reached only by the round about routes.
